MORALES DRIVEN INTO EXILE BY DOMINICAN ENEMIES

Refugee President to Be Taken from Little Republic on Gunboat.

CONDITIONHELPLESS

Resignation Accepted and He Will Be Transported to Porto Rico.

HAD BEEN HIDING IN CAVE

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)

SANTO DOMINGO, Jan. 12.—Carlos F. Morales, the runaway president of Santo Domingo, is a refugee at the United States legation in this city, wounded and bearing other evidences of the misfortunes which have pursued him since he fled from the capital three weeks ago. Morales was brought to the legation under cover of the darkness last night. He was helpless, one of his legs having been broken during his sojourn in the mountains west of the city. He appealed to United States Minister Thomas C. Dawson for a guarantee of safety.

Gen. Morales' resignation as president of Santo Domingo was tendered and accepted today. He will leave this city on board the United States gunboat Dubuque bound for Porto Rico. The former president will be accompanied by Enrique Jiminez.

Vice President Caceres, who has been acting as president since the time Gen. Morales fled from the capital, is now, according to the constitution, president of Santo Domingo. The change in the government does not imperil the negotiations for a treaty between Santo Domingo and the United States. Gen. Caceres is favorably inclined towards the ratification of the agreement reached. Gen. Morales, it is said, was recently hidden in a cave, nursing his wounded leg. He is now helpless and in the hands of his medical attendants.

FRANCE AND VENEZUELA AGAIN IN BAD HUMOR

Diplomatic Relations Broken Off and American Minister Is Acting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—According to advices which the state department has received from Caracas there has been a fresh breaking off of diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela, or between President Castro and M. Taigny, the French minister. Mr. Russell, the American minister, has been authorized to act for France during the severance of relations.

Although the present breach in the diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela is technically chargeable against the personality of M. Taigny, the French charge at Caracas, the real issue, as it is understood here, is the attack by President Castro upon the properties and franchise of the French Cable Company. The president asserted that the cable company had lent active assistance to the Matos rebellion. Therefore he began proceedings in the Venezuelan courts against the company on that score, and also complained that the company had violated the terms of its concession in not laying certain coast lines of cable, and especially in crossing the island of Santo Domingo with land wires subject to frequent interruption in times of rebellion on that island. The courts sustained the president's view, and in fact, practically took possession of the company's offices at certain points, when the French government intervened.

In the absence of the regular minister M. Taigny presented a written protest to the Venezuelan government. President Castro regarded this note as insulting to his government and refused to have anything more to do with M. Taigny. But the French government refused to allow the dispute to be made a personal one, and declared that M. Taigny, in his presentment, had followed precisely the instructions of his foreign office.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—An official note issued tonight says that although an ultimatum has not yet been sent to Venezuela, France cannot tolerate much longer President Castro's refusal to accede to the French demands without considering the advisability of taking stronger means to enforce them.

REVOLUTION COLLAPSES

Government Troops of Ecuador Are Successful Against Rebels Under Former President.

GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, Jan. 12.—The rebels have abandoned Rio Bamba and are marching north. Gen. Andrade, commander of the government troops, has occupied Rio Bamba.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Maxmilian Marina, consul general of Ecuador, received the following cable yesterday from L. Garcia, president of the republic:

"QUIETO, Jan. 9.—Tell the colony in New York that the revolution is over."

The revolution which has just ended, according to Consul General Marina, had its inception in the desire of Gen. Alfaro, a former president of the republic, to once more occupy the presidential chair.

FIELD'S CONDITION IS SOMEWHAT WORSE

Marshall Field.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—There was slight change tonight in the condition of Marshall Field, who lies ill at the Holland house, a sufferer from pneumonia. Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, for many years Mr. Field's personal physician, arrived today and entered at once into a consultation with Drs. Walter B. James, E. G. Janeway and Austen Riggs.

Dr. Billings said as he left the hotel for a few minutes with Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, that he had discerned no change during the day. While it was apparent that an effort was being made to give the news from the sick room a hopeful tinge, friends of the merchant gathered small comfort from the reports.

Just before midnight the following bulletin was issued:

"Mr. Field's condition remains unchanged. The disease has not extended. He is no worse."

Dr. James said that he did not look for the crisis for seven or nine days.

CALLS SHADE OF HUSBAND.

Edwin Walters Asks Divorce Because Wife Calls Predecessor's Spirit to Annoy Him.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. VA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Edwin Walters, a carpenter, has brought suit for divorce on the grounds that his wife is a spiritualist and persists in recalling the shade of her first husband to haunt husband No. 2. Mrs. Walters formerly passed as a medium and in this capacity traveled about the country, holding seances with her first husband. Three years after the death of her first husband she married again.

Walters alleges that the ghost of his predecessor frightened him so that he was ill for a week, and lost his wages as a carpenter. He contends that his wife's uncanny performances constitute cruel treatment.

SHOOTS HIS RIVAL.

"Jim" Hankins Invites George Hill to Walk Before Him and Then Kills the Man.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—"Walk past me George," said "Jim" Hankins to George Hill, at Scarboro, as Hill was playing "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" on a mouth organ. Hill kept on playing, and Hankins shot him in the breast.

"I can't walk now," said Hill, and died before Hankins got out of the house. Hankins was arrested. The men had quarreled over a girl.

Carried Away on Ice, One Drowns.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. VA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—A party of Bearsville young people were skating on the ice along the shore when the steamer Queen City passed down. The waves of the boat caused the ice to become detached from the shore and float out into the river with the skaters on it. Henry Rubs, aged 19, broke through and was drowned. The body was recovered.

ROGERS IS GIVEN SHORT DELAY IN NEW YORK HEARING

His Attorneys Allowed One More Day to Answer Missouri Case.

QUESTIONSCODIFIED

Hadley Groups Matters Upon Which He Desires Information—Reply Is Made.

HEARINGS AGAIN RESUMED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Before Justice Gildersleve, in the New York supreme court today, counsel for H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil Company were successful in securing a further postponement until tomorrow morning of the rule against Mr. Rogers to show cause why he should not be compelled to answer certain questions asked by Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri in the hearing to determine the relationship, if any, between the Standard Oil Company, the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and the Republic Oil Company. Mr. Hadley strongly opposed the postponement on the plea that it was necessary for him to close the hearing tomorrow in order to meet court engagements in the west on Monday.

The delay was secured through a plea that one of Mr. Rogers' counsel had a case on Monday. Attorney General Hadley divided the questions, which he asked that Mr. Rogers be ordered to answer, into five sets.

The first set of questions refers to Mr. Rogers' ownership of stock in the respondent companies; the second to such ownership of stock in other than respondent companies; the third to the ownership of stock by other parties in the respondent companies; the fourth as to such ownership in other than the respondent companies; and the fifth to the operations of companies, individuals and corporations other than the respondent doing business both within and without Missouri.

Mr. Rogers in his answer set forth four reasons why he should not be compelled to answer, as follows:

Rogers Is Annoyed.

The first was that the questions were immaterial; second, that a contest regarding the admissibility of the same questions was pending before the courts in Missouri; third, that the attorney general of Missouri has no legal right to take depositions in New York, and that the questions are under the consideration in the courts of another state; fourth, that the attorney general of Missouri is not asking the questions at issue for purposes of public policy, but is bringing the proceedings in order to gain advertising and personal notoriety as a foe of the Standard Oil Company.

To support this last-named claim the answer set forth that the newspapers have been red with the sensational stories by Mr. Hadley and his associates, holding up Mr. Rogers to contempt and ridicule. It was further contended that newspaper photographers and artists have been given a free hand at the hearing before Commissioner Sanborn, causing Mr. Rogers great annoyance.

Attorney General Hadley resumed the hearing before Commissioner Sanborn this afternoon, and A. C. Jockel, formerly of the Standard Oil Company and later with the Waters-Pierce Company in Oklahoma City, was again a witness. He was cross-questioned by the attorneys for the oil interests, but reaffirmed much of his testimony. The witness refused to answer a question asked by one of the

ELKINS CAUGHT IN REAR OVER RATE REGULATION

West Virginia Court Scores Railroad and Mine Proposition of His Own.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 12.—Alston G. Dayton, formerly ranking member of the house naval committee and now judge of the United States district court, scored railroads and, by implication, Senator Elkins as well, from the bench today in the trial of the case of the Fulmer Coal Company against the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad Company for alleged failure to deliver cars as per contract. The defendant railroad, as well as a coal mine on its line, is reported to be mainly owned by Senator S. B. Elkins, and questions involved in the railroad rate legislation now pending are also involved in this suit.

John Daugherty, car distributor for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and a stockholder of the Fulmer Coal Company, was the witness. He said the Morgantown & Kingwood failed to deliver cars which had been apportioned to it by the Baltimore & Ohio. The defense alleged that in supplying cars to a company in which he was a stockholder Daugherty had discriminated and had not carried out the policy of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Judge Dayton said that while Daugherty may have been acting in the dual capacity of car distributor and interested party, his conduct was no worse than that of railroad companies which own coal mines.

"I do not," said he, "consider this interest any more at fault than a president or a director of a railroad company in the coal mining business. In my judgment they should all be rendered liable for criminal prosecution."

BIG FIRE AT PANAMA.

Alleged Carelessness of Sanitary Department Employes Causes Loss of Two Blocks.

PANAMA, Jan. 12.—The biggest fire which has occurred here in three years started today on Malambo street, but was practically under control after burning two blocks inhabited by the poorer classes.

There is much indignation against the sanitary department owing to the fact that according to current reports the fire was caused by the carelessness of employes of that department in fumigating the houses where the flames started. The buildings burned included two public schools and an orphan asylum.

KANSAS CITY SHYLOCK IS CONVICTED OF USURY

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—P. J. Hughes, a money-lender, was convicted of usury in the criminal court today. J. H. Williamson testified that he had borrowed $10 from Hughes two years ago, had paid $11 in interest and still owed Hughes $20. The penalty for usury is not more than a fine of $500 or 90 days in jail.

WARSHIPS PREPARING FOR TROUBLE OVER MOROCCO

European Powers Are Calling Vessels from South American Waters. French Victory Assured.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)

BUENOS AYRES, ARGENTINA, Jan. 12.—It is announced that several foreign ministers here have received instructions to order the war vessels of their nationality now in South Atlantic to return immediately home. The order is probably connected with the Morocco question.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The published interviews with German diplomats in which they say Germany is going to the conference at Algeciras with peaceful intentions, have greatly relieved the anxiety of the business and other sections of the community. They have, however, made no impression on the diplomats and other officials of Great Britain who believe that in the end the majority of the powers will uphold the French contentions and anticipate the possibility of the withdrawal of Germany.

In official circles it is considered that the views of France and Germany with regard to the policing of Morocco cannot be reconciled.

JEWELER IS ASSAULTED.

Bold Thieves Knock Him Down With "Billy," but Flee Before Securing Any Plunder.

Sneak thieves assaulted and attempted to rob Abraham Horovitz, a jeweler, at his store at 1008 Liberty avenue, at noon yesterday. Harovitz has a bad scalp wound, which was inflicted by a blackjack. The thieves were frightened away before they secured anything.

Three men entered the store. Two went behind the counter and one stood in front of the counter near the door. One of the thieves took Horovitz by the throat, forcing him to the floor. The jeweler broke away and tried to get in front of the counter. One of the robbers struck him on the head with a blackjack. The jeweler fell on the floor and the thieves, fearing somebody had heard the noise of the scuffle, fled. Horovitz is not seriously hurt.

HILL IS ACQUITTED.

Philadelphia Official Accused of Falsifying Public Records Is Found Not Guilty.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Acting upon the orders of Judge Audenried, the jury in the case of John W. Hill, accused of forgery and falsification of the official records of the filtration bureau, this morning returned a verdict of acquittal. Two other indictments charging Hill with the same offense were then submitted to the jury without argument and the verdict of "not guilty" was also rendered upon these.

Judge Audenried's instructions were given as the result of the motion of Hill's attorneys that the jury should be instructed to acquit the defendant on the ground that no evidence had been presented to sustain the charge made by the commonwealth.

The Five Wives His Contention.

YORK, PA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—The police today interfered with two Mormon evangelists who were distributing literature. They gave their names as Fred Hicken and Lorin Woolley of Salt Lake City, Utah. Mayor McCall said to them: "No person can preach the gospel in the city of York whose license is signed by a man having five wives."

BOTH CANDIDATES ARE SANGUINE OF SUCCESS

Magee and Jenkinson Ready for Battle—Democrats Will Have Many Contests This Evening.

Both candidates for the Republican nomination for mayor are sanguine of success in today's contest. The fight has been the most interesting in the history of the party in many years. It is estimated that over 20,000 voters will participate in the primaries. In many of the wards there will be hard fights for councilmanic nominations.

While the Republican primary election boards are making the count of the vote tonight the Democrats of the various wards of the city will hold suggestion meetings to name candidates for councils. Last night the Democratic convention was reconvened for the purpose of adopting rules to prevent the Citizens from capturing these suggestion meetings. Every nomination made must receive the approval of City Chairman W. J. Bremen.

William A. Magee, Jr., and A. M. Jenkinson, the Republican mayoralty candidates, spent a busy day rounding up their supporters. The former concluded his campaign meetings in the Sixteenth and Thirty-seventh wards. Last night Jenkinson said:

Statement of Jenkinson.

I am very sanguine of my success in the primaries tomorrow. From the moment of my announcement, I have been at work and while, of course, have not visited every ward of the city, I have been in a large majority of them, and have met the people generally, as well as the active workers in the party. The afternoons have been spent at my headquarters on Grant street, where there has been a constant stream of visitors—business men, personal friends and active workers in the Republican party, and men who for the first time are taking an interest in a primary election. In addition to this character of work, I have addressed upwards of 50,000 personal letters to men who are entitled to participate in the Republican primaries. I have endeavored to conduct a canvass wholly apart from personal abuse, and without any idea of assuming or aspiring to party leadership. I am a plain business man, and a Republican, and no matter what the outcome of the primary election may be, I will still be a Republican, and for the nominee of the party.

Wants a Square Deal.

In all my communications I have appealed for a fair hearing and a square deal, to reason and not to prejudice. I have paid no attention to the malicious falsehoods that have been handed about so freely by my opponents. If I am nominated and elected, I want to be the mayor of all the people; of every man, whether he be the humblest laboring man in the mill, the salesman behind the counter, or the man who owns the business, and accord a fair hearing and equal treatment to all. There are no combinations of capital, corporate interests or otherwise, whatsoever behind my candidacy, nor will there be behind me, should I become mayor. In the letter addressed to the people, recently published, I endeavored to state in a candid, businesslike way my views on some matters of vital importance to all the citizens, and which will be carried into effect if I should be honored with the nomination and election.

From a very intimate and personal contact with the people all over the city, I am confident of my success by an overwhelming majority.

This statement was made by Magee last night:

LITTLE LEBANON IN ONE DISTRICT

No Help for It, Says James H. McCreery, Author of Senatorial Apportionment Bill.

DEMANDS OF CONSTITUTION

At the request of the members of the legislature from Beaver county, Attorney James M. McCreery of Beaver has drawn up a senatorial apportionment bill. This bill differs materially from any other heretofore printed. Mr. Tredway's bill establishes 43 senatorial districts, each with a population of less than 100,000, while Mr. McCreery's has only nine districts containing less than 100,000 population. Mr. Tredway makes one district out of Dauphin and Lebanon counties; Mr. McCreery makes a separate district out of Lebanon county, his argument being that under the constitution Dauphin county, having more than four-fifths of a senatorial district ratio, is entitled to be a separate senatorial district, and there is absence of constitutional authority to annex Lebanon county to Dauphin, or to any other county surrounding Lebanon, as all of them are entitled to be separate districts. Mr. Tredway and Mr. McCreery both make only one district out of the big county of Lackawanna, having found difficulties in the way of dividing the county so as to give it more representation. Mr. McCreery's apportionment follows:

District population: First to Eighth, Philadelphia, 1,293,697; Ninth, Delaware, 94,762; Tenth, Bucks, 77,190; Eleventh, Berks, 159,615; Twelfth, Montgomery, 138,905; Thirteenth, Lancaster, 163,241; Fourteenth, Lackawanna, 193,331; Fifteenth, Dauphin, 114,445; Sixteenth, Lehigh, 95,-985; Seventeenth, Lebanon, 63,857; Eighteenth, Northampton, 90,854; Nineteenth, Chester, 95,-685; Twentieth and Twenty-first, Luzerne, 257,-151; Twenty-second, Wayne, Pike, Monroe and Carbon, 104,208; Twenty-third, Bradford, Wyoming and Susquehanna, 116,598; Twenty-fourth, Lycoming, Sullivan and Columbia, 127,692; Twenty-fifth, Montour, Northumberland and Union, 124,019; Twenty-sixth, Potter, Tioga, Clinton and Cameron, 115,962; Twenty-seventh, Snyder, Mifflin, Juniata, Perry and Cumberland, 133,175; Twenty-eighth, York, 118,412; Twenty-ninth, McKean, Forest, Elk and Clarion, 125,688; Thirtieth, Schuylkill, 172,977; Thirty-first, Franklin, Fulton and Adams, 99,322; Thirty-second, Huntingdon, Bedford and Somerset, 125,576; Thirty-third, Cambria, 104,937; Thirty-fourth, Clearfield and Center, 123,506; Thirty-fifth, Blair, 85,692; Thirty-sixth, Indiana and Jefferson, 101,669; Thirty-seventh, Butler and Armstrong, 108,513; Thirty-eighth, Washington and Greene, 120,462; Thirty-ninth, Westmoreland, 180,175; Forty-fourth to Forty-fifth, Allegheny, 775,058; Forty-sixth, Mercer and Venango, 107,035; Forty-seventh, Beaver and Lawrence, 112,474; Forty-eighth, Crawford and Warren, 102,582; Forty-ninth, Erie, 98,473; Fiftieth, Fayette, 110,412.

ROGERS IS GIVEN DELAY

oil company's attorneys as to his place of employment. He said he did so on advice of counsel, and added:

Turning the Tables.

"I've got the habit, too."

After the hearing in court tomorrow morning in the Rogers matter the hearing before the commissioner will be resumed tomorrow and concluded during the afternoon or evening.

Mr. Hadley conferred with Frank Hagerman, attorney for the Standard Oil Company. Jockel was recalled, and said that when he went west he stopped for a day in the office of the Waters-Pierce company and saw Mr. Tinsley, Mr. Acker, Mr. King, Mr. McKee and one or two others. Mr. McKee, he said, is the auditor of the Waters-Pierce company and was instructing a new auditor, who expected to audit the accounts of some sub-stations. Witness could not say whether they were sub-stations of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

Had you known of Mr. Tinsley and Mr. Backus as being connected with the Standard Oil Company interest at 26 Broadway before you met them in St. Louis in the office of the Waters-Pierce Company?

Standard Oil Men.

Mr. Tinsley, yes. Mr. Backus told me personally that he had been at 26 Broadway. He was in Mr. Tinsley's office there.

The witness said that of the blanks for reports he had seen in St. Louis one of the Oklahoma City reports was sent to R. P. Tinsley at St. Louis and the other was kept on file.

On cross-examination Jockel said last fall he had written to Attorney General Hadley at Jefferson City, Mo., telling him that he possessed information of value.

You were not paid a salary by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey while working in Oklahoma City, were you?

I was not. My salary commenced with the Waters-Pierce Company when I got to Oklahoma City on December 1.

The witness said he had never told any one in Oklahoma that he had been employed by the Standard Oil Company other than former employes of the Standard Oil who knew of the fact. The witness said that when Manager Ebi at Oklahoma City told him the Standard Oil Company had secured control of the Waters-Pierce Company through a railway deal, no other person was present to hear the conversation. Jockel said he got $624 per year salary with the Standard at Newark and $1,200 in Oklahoma City with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

Criminal Charge Brought.

Asked about a criminal charge made against him, Jockel said it was brought in June, 1904, in a police court in this city. He said he had subsequently made an application for a bond to a surety company in this city.

And because of not getting the bond you had to quit your position in Oklahoma City?

That was one reason, and the other was that I wanted to get back to my folks in a civilized country.

The witness explained that the National Conduit and Cable Company had accused him of taking $100 and that he had been two days in jail as a result. He denied with emphasis that he had received or taken the money.

The witness was taken entirely over the ground covered by his direct testimony. He asserted again that the major portion of the barreled oil handled by the Waters-Pierce company in Oklahoma came from Standard Oil properties.

CUT ADRIFT IN STORM.

Thirty-five Men Exposed to Death, but Are Rescued from Rocky Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Struggling desperately all the night against the terrific southeast gale that swept upon the coast yesterday afternoon the tug Sea Rover clung to a dredger and two lighters upon which were 35 workmen bound for San Pedro until it was beaten back in the seething breakers on Duxbury reef and was compelled to abandon the unwieldly craft and their human freight.

Before leaving her charges the Sea Rover saved eight of the men on the barges, several jumping into the sea and swimming to the land. One or two were seriously injured. The other 27 men reached shore in Bolinas bay in the small boats which were carried on the dredgers and lighters.

TWO SOLONS RESIGN.

Allegheny Council Indorses Action Begun to Condemn Bridges Between the Two Cities.

At a special meeting of Allegheny common council held last night George W. Sunman of the Tenth ward, and John H. Keane of the Ninth, presented their resignations. Mr. Sunman has accepted a position as one of the three state mercantile tax collectors from Allegheny county. Mr. Keane resigned to become a candidate for the seat in select council vacated by M. J. Brown.

A resolution was passed indorsing the action begun to condemn the Sixth, Seventh and Ninth street bridges, the object being to make these structures free to the public.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS WILL PICK NOMINEE FOR MAYOR TODAY

is overwhelmingly in my favor. If the people come out to vote, and I think they will, and if I get a square deal, I will receive the nomination by a tremendous majority. I appeal to all the primary election officers without regard to their personal inclinations to allow nothing to be done that will cast suspicion upon the fairness of the proceedings tomorrow. A nomination upon which the slightest cloud can be cast will be valueless to the party and the nominee. I hope the voters who come to the polls will be allowed to mark their tickets themselves as at a general election, and that a refusal to accept and vote a ticket already marked will not be a signal for a challenge and other interference.

The Republican party is on trial. It is well understood that the purpose of a party primary is to select a nominee whom the whole party will support. If the primary tomorrow is conducted honestly and decently the election of the nominee will be assured, but if the methods which will prevail do not obtain the support of public opinion it will be useless to hold Republican primaries in this city hereafter, as a majority of our own party will forever repudiate its candidates. I appeal to every Republican to vote tomorrow and give the party a chance to prove its good faith to the people."

No Prediction from Leslie.

M. G. Leslie, chairman of the Republican city committee, said:

I have no prediction to make as to the result. All I know is that the supporters of A. M. Jenkinson and W. A. Magee Jr., for the nomination for mayor and the rival candidates for the nominations for council and other ward officers are working energetically. I am bending every energy in my power to see that there is an honest and fair primary election. My only regret is that some persons have seen fit to introduce so much in the way of personalities into the campaign. My chief concern just now is due to a knowledge that we are likely to have serious trouble with the Democrats in a number of wards, notably the Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Twenty-fourth, Thirtieth and Twenty-seventh wards. It is possible that if the Democrats in these and a few other wards attempt to carry out the plans that Republicans understand have been laid, the result will be the closing of some of the polling places. The Democrats in these wards greatly outnumber the Republicans, but between 20,000 and 22,000 votes will be polled in the primaries.

Citizens Will Vote.

Many of the members of the Citizens party will endeavor to participate in the Republican primaries today. In some wards they will be successful and in others, no doubt, attempts will be made to prevent them. The question is in the hands of the election boards. If they are in doubt as to the sincerity of the voter he must satisfy them.

Mayor Hays says he thinks Jenkinson will be nominated. He expressed the opinion that city employes going into the primaries will be divided between the two candidates for mayor. Director Bigelow says some of the payroll men will be for Magee, but believes the majority of them will vote for Jenkinson. Director Moore of the department of public safety says he told all inquiring employes that they could go into the primaries if they desired, and that the administration is favorable to Jenkinson. Director Clark of the department of charities says all of the candidates for mayor are good men, but that he will not participate in the Republican primaries.

Superintendent Andrew Burk, of the bureau of construction in the department of public works, said he was telling all of his men to support Jenkinson.

City Treasurer Steel is a relative of Magee. He says it is an outrage for city officials to give orders to public servants. "The men in my office," said he, "can vote as they please."

Jenkinson Could Not Get There.

Jenkinson was forced to disappoint a big meeting of supporters in the Thirty-ninth ward. They gathered to meet him and in some way there was a misunderstanding about his engagements and he failed to reach the ward. He was scheduled for several points in the city.

Magee addressed large meetings in the Sixteenth and Thirty-seventh ward. In the former the other speakers were A. J. Edwards and W. D. Grimes. In Brushton J. D. Watson and A. C. Stein spoke with him.

The Sixteenth ward Republicans will name Charles Stewart for select councilman. Thomas O'Brien, a saloonkeeper, has resigned from councils.

The Republican ward committees met in every ward last night to distribute the election papers and tickets. They will be convened tonight to canvass the vote and to hear the reports of nominating committees in the wards where they have been appointed. In the Twenty-first ward there is likely to be a lively time, as a minority in the committee is opposed to making the nominations through a committee.

The conference committee of the Democrats, consisting of W. J. Brennen, J. A. Clark, George H. Stengel, John F. O'Toole and P. J. Barry, will meet a committee representing the Municipal league at the office of W. K. Jennings this afternoon. Plans will be made to have the league accept the platform adopted by the Democratic city convention.

Democrats Change Rules.

The Democratic city convention was convened last night at headquarters to make changes in the party rules. The backers of Guthrie are afraid that in some of the downtown wards and in the Twentieth, the Citizens will enter into a fusion arrangement on the councilmanic nominations which will injure the chances for success of the Democratic candidate for mayor.

W. J. Brennen presided over the convention. For some reason the permanent chairman, John B. Larkin, failed to attend the convention. Commissioner Clark introduced these resolutions:

Resolved, That all nominations of candidates for councils purporting to represent the Democratic party or policy of the several wards of Pittsburgh shall be submitted before filing according to law to the chairman of the Democratic city committee for his approval and certification.

Resolved, That if the nomination or nominations presented to the chairman of the Democratic city committee shall not be approved by him, such candidate or candidates not so approved by him shall not be certified as representing the Democratic party or policy of the ward, but the chairman of the Democratic city committee shall call a meeting of the Democratic executive committee to consider the matter of making and certifying nominations to fill the vacancy or vacancies caused by the action of the chairman of the Democratic city committee in disapproving of the nomination.

Much Power Is Given.

Resolved, That the Democratic city committee be authorized and empowered to make and certify to the county commissioners a certificate of nomination representing the Democratic party or policy of policy of the ward, containing the nomination or nominations of the candidate or candidates nominated by the executive committee, as well as the candidates approved by the chairman of the Democratic city committee, which nomination or nominations when so made shall be certified to the proper officers by the chairman.

Resolved, That in the event any ward meeting or committee thereby appointed shall neglect or refuse to place in nomination and certify to the chairman of the Democratic city committee, at least 20 days before the day of election candidates to fill the places to be voted for at the municipal election to be held on the third Tuesday of February, 1906, and thereafter, the Democratic city executive committee is authorized and empowered to nominate and certify to the county commissioners, candidates to be voted for in the ward or wards and districts thereof.

Chairman Brennen has named the following provisional chairmen of the Democratic ward suggestion meetings tonight:

First ward, Thomas A. Joyce; Second, Luke Mellon; Third, David Larkin; Fourth, John Gibbons; Fifth, P. J. Barry; Sixth, Michael Larkin; Seventh, Dennis J. Boyle; Eighth, John F. Ennis; Ninth, J. J. Kirby; Tenth, J. J. McKelvy; Eleventh, John Whitney; Twelfth, Edward Cerana; Thirteenth, Joseph Bergman; Fourteenth, D. F. Crawford; Fifteenth, J. L. Freeker; Sixteenth, Joseph V. Smith; Seventeenth, F. C. McMahon; Eighteenth, James O'Connor; Nineteenth, F. J. Brady; Twentieth, M. F. Howley; Twenty-first, J. A. Clark; Twenty-second, S. J. Graham; Twenty-third, F. C. Beatty; Twenty-fourth, John Caldwell; Twenty-fifth, R. D. McEachren; Twenty-sixth, A. J. Kunzler; Twenty-seventh, George Lanz; Twenty-eighth, Louis Kimmel; Twenty-ninth, J. S. Carney; Thirtieth, M. J. Mullen; Thirty-first, Charles Fischer; Thirty-second, James M. Morrison; Thirty-third, John Fisherty; Thirty-fourth, John F. O'Toole; Thirty-fifth, P. J. Flinn; Thirty-sixth, George Welsh; Thirty-seventh, R. J. Daley; Thirty-eighth, Herman Hegner; Thirty-ninth, John P. McCabe; Portieth, P. L. Prendergast.

The resolutions also provide the ward committees must report to the city committee not later than Monday.

One Man Objected.

Joseph McClure of the Twenty-seventh ward objected. He wanted the power placed in the hands of the city committee instead of the executive committee. He was voted down. Clark said the purpose of the resolutions is to keep the Citizens out of the Democratic suggestion meetings. After the resolutions had been adopted, George W. Guthrie made a lengthy speech in which he showed he was heartily in favor of the resolution.

PRIMARIES TO BE QUIET UPON THE NORTH SIDE

Republican Candidate for Nomination for Mayor Has No Opposition. Other News in Political Field.

With no contest, the primaries in Allegheny will be quiet. Delegates to the Republican convention will be voted for between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m. As Charles F. Kirschler is the only candidate, it is likely few besides the various election boards will cast a vote. All the delegates are instructed for Kirschler and will formally nominate him as Republican candidate for mayor, at the convention in headquarters in East Diamond street, at 11 o'clock Monday morning. The other candidates at the general election will be George D. Logan, Good Government party, and Maj. H. K. Tyler, Anti-Graft party candidate.

Tyler was indignant last night at the report that Director Thomas B. Scandrett was for him in this campaign. "I don't want him," is the major's way of dismissing Scandrett. "I am a candidate on an anti-graft platform, and the people of Allegheny know me. Those who are supporting me are reputable men in every part of the city."

At the Allegheny War Veterans' headquarters last night it was said Tyler would get the solid old soldier vote. There are almost 4,000 civil war veterans in Allegheny.

The Good Government party will commence missionary work in the churches next week. The Rev. Dr. H. D. Lindsay of the North Presbyterian church, chairman of the committee on speakers, expects to have an array of stump orators that will keep things lively. Attorney John Marron will speak at several meetings.

D. A. McClenahan, chairman of the committee on preachers, announced the appointment of the following: The Rev. Francis J. McCabe, Catholic; the Rev. J. W. Hoffman, Methodist Episcopal; the Rev. W. T. Nicholas, English Evangelical Lutheran; the Rev. T. Ross Paden, Presbyterian; the Rev. Wallace Tharp, Christian; the Rev. C. M. Tanner, African Methodist Episcopal; the Rev. D. S. Scott, Colored Baptist; the Rev. A. J. Bonsall, Baptist; the Rev. A. C. Dieffenbach, Reformed; the Rev. A. M. Kuldell, German Evangelical Lutheran, and the Rev. Thomas Clayton, Congregationalist.

A close fight is expected in the Third ward primary between Alderman William Lang and Harry Hamilton. Lang has been alderman in the Third for years.

Patents for the name Good Government party in Allegheny wards were filed as follows yesterday:

Sixth ward—R. H. Gilliford, John G. Logan, John Pritham, Charles H. Hays and George S. Boyd.

Twelfth ward—W. Verbane, Charles Zoller, J. G. Evans, E. F. Dindinger and C. H. Zoller.

Fourteenth ward—John McKinley, Walter E. Kalbfell, Harry Lees, Theodore Kalmeyer and Alexander Patterson.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES.

John Donovan, chief of the Braddock fire department, has announced himself as a candidate for burgess on the independent ticket. The other candidates are: J. Edgar Little, principal of the Braddock high school, and William T. Griffith, a shoe dealer.

QUEEN OF FINANCE MAY SOON BE AT WASHTUB

Mrs. Chadwick Is in Penitentiary Where There Is No Room for Her Even to Sleep.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick arrived at the penitentiary today from Cleveland to begin a sentence of 10 years for conspiracy to wreck the Citizens National bank at Oberlin, Ohio. The woman was taken through the baggage room under the general waiting room in the Union station and placed in a carriage in the driveway and hurried to prison. Ten policemen were at the station to keep the crowd back. Three other policemen escorted the woman to a carriage. Detectives in plain clothes were present also. Mrs. Chadwick was in charge of United States Marshal Chandler. No special preparations were made in the woman's department of the prison for the reception of Mrs. Chadwick.

She will be compelled to sleep on a cot in the corridor of the prison as the woman's department is filled, and every bed occupied. The prison officials are firm in the belief that Mrs. Chadwick is Madame De Vere. After she had filed her name with the clerk, the following entry was made in the book at the prison: "Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, alias Madame De Vere—10 years—conspiring to wreck a national bank—Cuyahoga county—received January 12, 1906, expires January 12, 1916—good time—November, 1915."

The prison officials are skeptical as to the illness of Mrs. Chadwick. They say she will be treated as any other prisoner in the female department. They think the reports that she has heart trouble are groundless and after an examination, if it is found she is able, she will be put to washing or other heavy work. If not, she will be placed in the sewing department.

Later Mrs. Chadwick became extremely nervous and was placed in the hospital to be kept there during the day.

COUNTY GETS HIGH RATE.

Freehold Bids Nearly 4 Per Cent Interest and Will Be Chosen as Depository.

County controller Booth and Treasurer Hosack yesterday received bids from banks for handling the county's funds during the ensuing three years. The highest bid was from the Freehold bank, and it will be chosen as the county depository. Its bid was 3.95 per cent on daily balances. The other bids were as follows:

Mellon National, 2.1 per cent; Second National, 3.77 per cent; Monongahela National, 2.52 per cent. The interest offered by the Freehold bank is a gain of .18 per cent over the rate of interest secured under Treasurer Collingwood. The county account averages $1,000,000 the year at times going beyond $2,000,000. The Second National bank is the present depository. While the county has secured a rate of 3.95 per cent interest the city of Pittsburgh only gets 2 per cent from its depositories.

WEAVER REPUDIATES ACTION OF THE POLICE

Mayor Investigates Primary Disorders—New Ward Combination Elects City Committee.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—A rigid investigation is to be made by Mayor Weaver into the irregularities by police at the Republican primaries in the Fifth ward. Thursday night a large force from other districts were thrown into the Fifth ward shortly after Mayor Weaver had issued a statement telling how the bluecoats were out of politics. These helped James A. Anderson to defeat Harbormaster Maloney. Wherever Maloney's adherents resisted they were arrested, 15 members of election boards being taken in.

Director Potter, Assistant Director South and Superintendent Taylor declared they had never ordered the police into the ward. Ex-Judge Gordon, Mayor Weaver's counsel, went into Magistrate Kochersperger's court during the hearings of the election officials. He declared the mayor wouldn't countenance the work of the officers and got Maloney's men free.

One policeman, John F. Mooney, was arrested in the court room at Judge Gordon's request. Mooney made an attack on State Representative MacAfee, one of the prisoners who appeared with his head swathed in bandages.

Unruly Conventions.

The regular Republicans held a convention today for the nomination of candidates for magistrate, city councils and school directors and for the selection of delegates to the state convention. Tonight the 43 ward committees met to organize and each chose city committeemen. Beginning with the primaries last night the fights were carried into conventions today. In several wards conventions were interrupted and in some instances the disorder was so great that the police had to interfere.

Since the Republican defeat last fall new combinations have been formed by the ward leaders to get control of the city committee. In many of the wards Republicans prominent in the reform movement are now in control and the old city organization, of which Israel W. Durham was the leader, is practically out of existence. The city committeemen selected tonight will meet Monday.

Of equal importance wa sthe election of 114 delegates to represent Philadelphia in the state convention at Harrisburg June 6. It is calimed that Senator Penrose and his friends will control between 70 and 80.

Weaver Is Out.

It has been intimated that Mayor Weaver will be urged as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and the statement was made that the delegation from Philadelphia will support him. The result of today's convention, it is stated, means that Mayor Weaver is eliminated.

A close friend of Senator Penrose stated tonight that John M. Mick, who had been hailed as the newleader of the local Republican organization to succeed Durham, failed to elect a delegation favorable to Mayor Weaver. Durham and other friends of Penrose claim that with Weaver out of the contest the Philadelphia delegation will without doubt be unanimous for the candidate favored.

Those opposed to Penrose claim the delegation will be against all nominees favored by Penrose and assert that upwards of 100 of the 114 delegates are not in sympathy with him.

Windsor Hotel, Montreal, Burns.

MONTREAL, QUE., Jan. 12.—A section of the Windsor hotel was burned tonight, causing a loss estimated at $150,000. Heavy brick walls and fireproof doors confined the flames to the section where they originated. The fire started in the kitchen and destroyed the center square, which included the dining room, grill room, bar and other public rooms. The guests had plenty of time to remove their belongings. Neger Wriden and Steward Dunn were injured while fighting the fire.

HUMPHREYS CONFESSES COMPLICITY IN SWINDLE

New Light Is Shed on the Norfolk & Western $4,000,000 Bond Conspiracy.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—While much of the tension that exists in financial circles over the Norfolk & Western $4,000,000 stock swindle was relieved by the knowledge that Samuel J. Humphreys, arrested as an accomplice of Charles Augustus Seton, had made a confession today in which, it is said, he declared Seton to be the head of the conspiracy, a feeling of uneasiness continued to prevail over the fact that most of the certificates Seton made have not been found.

Armed with the legal right, the police tomorrow will visit the vaults of the Standard Safe Deposit Company of New York, where Seton has long had a box.

Humphreys was arraigned in the Tombs police court today and remanded for a hearing on Monday. Immediately after he was taken to Mr. Garvan's office and examined in the presence of detectives who have been working on the case. Humphreys admitted he was the "Mr. Collins" introduced to Barnard and Clark last September by Seton, as desirous of arranging a loan upon two of the spurious certificates. He protested his innocence in the fraud and insisted he had been used as a tool by Seton. He admitted that he is the mysterious E. M. Green of Pittsburgh, who offered the certificates which led to the detection of forgeries. Seton was today committed to prison without bail.

GROOM IS IN A RAGE AND THE BRIDE FAINTS

Marriage Ceremony of Pittsburgh Physician Is Delayed Because of Conflict With State Law.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DETROIT, MICH., Jan. 12.—In spite of a Michigan state law, which forbids the marriage of first cousins, Dr. Stephen A. Terski, recently graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and now practicing medicine in Pittsburgh, came to Detroit to wed Miss Sophia Straszewski.

The license was secured and the ceremony was to have been performed this morning by the Rev. John Rzadkowolski of St. Josafat's church. The bridal party assembled early. For an hour they waited, and no priest came. When he did come it was to bring the news that Bishop Foley had ordered the wedding stopped on account of the state law against marriage of cousins. The bride fainted. The groom raged.

A letter from the bishop, however, accompanied his order. The letter was directed to the Catholic priest at Sandwich, Ont. Thither the bridal party went and the ceremony was performed. A reception followed at the home of the bride, 719 Melbourne avenue, and the bride and groom departed for Pittsburgh.

BUYS VIRGINIA FURNACE.

Plant of New Mineral Company Said to Have Been Taken Over by Pittsburgher.

RICHMOND, VA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—It is reported here that the new mineral company has sold its furnace at Ivanhoe, in southwest Virginia, to Robert A. Carter of Pittsburgh. The purchase includes all of the rich mineral lands in Wythe and Carroll counties. The price can not be ascertained. The supposition is that the new purchaser will develop the property and put it in an up-to-date furnace. The section is tapped by a branch of the Norfolk & Western.

Robert A. Carter has offices in the House building and lives at the Buckingham hotel. He is out of the city at present.

OVER THREE HUNDRED KILLED OR WOUNDED

Cossacks Make Attack on Armenian Seminary—Revolutionists Rounded Up.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

TIFLIS, CAUCASIA, Jan. 12.—Nearly 350 persons were killed or injured in an attack made by Cossacks yesterday on the Armenian seminary following the throwing of two bombs from that institution at a passing patrol. Four Cossacks were wounded and a boy was killed by the explosion of the bombs. Artillery was immediately called up and the seminary was surrounded and shelled. The building soon burst into flames and the bombs and cartridges stored therein exploded. Thirty-three persons perished during the conflagration while 300 were injured by fire or wounded by shells. The troops subsequently shelled another Armenian house where bombs and weapons were hidden and killed eight revolutionists.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—A detachment of infantry surrounded the town of Novominsk, Russian Poland, at daybreak yesterday and captured a large number of revolutionists.

The workmens council, after consultation with the leaders of the other proletariat organizations, today decided that the celebration of the anniversary of January 22 (Red Sunday) should take the form of a general pacific strike for a single day.

PRIOR'S FORGERIES WILL REACH INTO THOUSANDS

Committee States Canton (O.) South Sharon (Pa.) and Alpena (Mich.) Bonds Are Involved.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 12.—The committee in charge of the investigation of the affairs of Denison, Prior & Co. met today, and after the meeting, announced that the facts disclosed, justified them in stating that it is their belief that forgeries to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars exist, and are confined to the following three issues of bonds:

City of Canton, O., 4 per cent water works extension bonds; South Sharon, Pa., 4½ per cent improvement bonds, and Alpena, Mich., 6 per cent water works bonds. Now that the accountants are becoming more familiar with the bookkeeping system the work is progressing more rapidly, and it is hoped that within a few days a definite conclusion can be reached. George Denison has been selected by the committee as its secretary.

It is learned from a trustworthy source that the forged bonds issued by the firm have practically been traced, and that they are largely held by four or five big financial institutions in this city, which will not be affected in the slightest degree as a result of any losses sustained.

John C. Chandler today dismissed his replevin suit against Charles Denison, surviving partner of Denison, Prior & Co. Regarding the statement that forged bonds are held by 50 interior Ohio banks, H. R. Newcomb, a member of the bankers' committee, said tonight that there was no justification for it.

Eckley B. Coxe Gives U. of P. $50,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Provost Harrison today announced that the University of Pennsylvania has received the sum of $50,000 from Eckley Brinton Coxe, Jr., and that the new dormitory house, now nearing completion, will be called the Coxe house. WEAVE WEB ABOUT GEYSER

Witness Identifies Him as Man He Saw Leaving Yard in Which Body Was Found.

DRAMATIC MOMENT IN COURT

The commonwealth rested in the case in which Norman H. Geyser is charged with the murder of Mrs. Martha Shook Kirkpatrick, but may introduce some testimony in rebuttal after the defense has closed its case, or questions are asked one witness today. The developments yesterday were of such a nature that it is possible that the defense may yet change its plans and take a new tack. Although the state finished an hour before adjournment time, the lawyers requested the court to adjourn because they did not want to open their case at that late hour.

The several surprises sprung by the commonwealth yesterday, when one witness identified Geyser positively as the man who came out of the yard in the alley that night, and other strong evidence tending to implicate him in the murder, was such that the defendant's lawyers wanted time to consult before opening the case. The court thought this fair, and sent the jury to their room, announcing that an all-day session would be held today and possibly, if necessary, a night session. The lawyers do not expect to finish the case for several days.

Attorney Haymaker called R. B. Ellison, the Beaver avenue butcher, saying he wanted to ask him a question or two on cross-examination. He had left the room and could not be located, but will be on hand today. Mr. Robb then said he would not rest until after Ellison was heard.

Prosecution Springs a Surprise.

The greatest surprise of the long trial of Geyser was sprung by the commonwealth, when J. S. Verge, a lather, was called. He lived, at the time of the murder, at 1415 Federal street, Allegheny, occupied a small room, overlooking the yard in which the body of Mrs. Kirkpatrick was found. He positively identified Geyser as the man he saw coming out of the yard in the rear of 7 Jackson street at about 11 o'clock on the night of the killing. The attorneys for the defense used every means in their power to confuse the witness, but he never wavered in the least from his statements given in direct testimony, and calmly stood up in the witness stand and pointed out Geyser, who was sitting at the counsel table, as the man he saw the night of the murder.

Verge lived in rooms about 35 feet from Creighton alley. A little alley ran back of his place and across this alley were the rear yards of 7 and 9 Jackson street. The yard where Mrs. Kirkpatrick was found was in plain view. A board was off the fence between the yards of 7 and 9. On the night of February 4 he was in his room with his wife. About 11 o'clock he heard a noise in one of the yards. He went to the door and saw a man come out of the yard of No. 7, coming through a gate that was two feet and eight inches from where the witness stood. The man's face was toward him and he got a good view of him. Without hesitation Verge pointed out Geyser as the man he had seen coming out of the yard. The identification was the greatest sensation of the trial.

Sticks to His Testimony.

Verge said he had told Mrs. Christman about seeing the man. The latter wore a long overcoat and a black stiff hat.

On cross-examination Verge was asked how he knew the distance he had mentioned in his testimony so accurately. He answered that he was a lather and trained in estimating distances. Mr. Haymaker kept up his questions about the rear porch and steps until the court told him it was not cross-examination. Verge's position when he saw the man was the basis of another wrangle between counsel, Mr. Robb saying the defense was trying to force the witness to admit he said things he did not say. Judge Shafer stopped this by saying the testimony was simple and the jury could understand it.

Turned over to the prosecution again Verge said the light in the room was turned up and he had opened the door as far as possible so that he could see. There had been some burglaries in the neighborhood and he wanted to see as far as he could into the alley. Verge was kept on the stand for nearly three hours, but his story was not shaken.

Mrs. Frank Christman of 1415 Federal street, was called to corroborate Verge. She had not heard the noise, as she lives in the front of the house.

Richard G. Ellison, who formerly lived at 327 Federal street, testified that he left his meat shop in Beaver avenue at 10:45 on the Saturday night Mrs. Kirkpatrick disappeared. He went home and changed his clothes and started out again. As he stood on the steps a man passed him going down the street. He walked behind, as he, too, was going down town. After walking about 40 feet he caught up with this man, who seemed to veer away from him. As the witness passed he got a good look at the man. He identified Geyser as the man, and said he did not wear glasses at the time.

Under cross-examination Ellison said he got home about five minutes after 11 o'clock. He fixed this time from having noticed a clock at North avenue and Federal street. He was nettled by Mr. Haymaker's questioning and said he did not want to come into court, and came as an unwilling witness.

Witnesses from a Distance.

Verge was recalled by Mr. Robb to tell if he had examined the fence along the alley, in the rear of his room, during the noon recess. He said he had and that it was exactly as he said it was, the fence coming within five inches of the top of the railing around the porch just outside his room.

E. E. Frum, who had come from Martinsville, W. Va., lived in the same house with the Bowsers, at 12 Sampson street. At the time of the murder and he called Mrs. Bowser and her husband to the side door, opening into Creighton alley, to look at the man quarreling with some one at the gate leading into the yard, where Mrs. Kirkpatrick's body was found. Frum's testimony was about the same as that given by Mrs. Bowser on Thursday. He had not seen Geyser at the Allegheny lockup, but the man he saw in the alley "scuffling with some object that looked like a woman was about the height of Geyser." The light in the alley, he said, was poor at the time, and the man looked rather large. On cross-examination Frum said he saw the man drag the "object" from the alley through the gate into the yard in the rear of 9 Jackson street. He said the man dropped the object at the foot of a tree.

William T. Dick, a railroader, now living in Ft. Wayne, Ind., came here to testify in the case. At the time of the murder he lived with a relative in Taylor avenue, Allegheny.

"On the night of February 4, 1905," he said, "I was working in the Allegheny market house. On my way home, at about 11:20 that night, I was walking up Federal street on the west side. At Federal street and Montgomery avenue I saw a man standing with his back against the wall of a building on the Federal street side."

Rag Around His Hand.

"Was the light good at that point?" Mr. Robb asked.

"Yes, sir; the arc was burning brightly."

"Did you notice anything unusual about the man?"

"Yes; he had a white rag tied around his right hand."

"I object to such tactics," shouted Mr. Haymaker. "Mr. Robb grabbed his right hand to show the witness."

"I did no such thing," Mr. Robb retorted.

The judge had to call the attorneys to order, after which Mr. Robb asked:

"What was the man doing?"

"Nothing; just standing there."

"Did you get a good view of him at the time?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you see him now?"

"Yes; there he sits," and the witness pointed at Geyser, who shifted uneasily in his chair and rubbed his forehead nervously with his right hand.

On cross-examination Dick admitted he was walking "pretty rapidly" as he passed Montgomery avenue, as he had an order of meat to deliver on his way home, but he knew Geyser, he said, "to see him," and was positive he is the man he saw standing against the wall with the white rag around his right hand. He said he had met Geyser several times in the Elkhorn Hunting and Fishing club rooms in East Diamond street.

Mrs. Anna Kirkpatrick, the mother-in-law of the dead woman, was recalled. She identified, by the aid of a strong magnifying glass, the pictures of her dead daughter-in-law and her baby boy in a group in a small photograph. The picture showed the dead woman's mouth and teeth plainly under the glass. The witness said:

Husband Again on Stand.

"Mattie's teeth were fairly even, but badly decayed in front," and she indicated with a lead pencil placed on her own teeth how those of the dead woman were decayed. Her statement and indication tallied with those of the physicians and Supt. Glenn's testimony as regards the condition of the teeth of the murdered woman.

James Albert Kirkpatrick, husband of the dead woman, was recalled and identified the picture of his wife and baby in the group on the photograph. His testimony was about the same as his mother's.

Mr. Robb offered in testimony 19 exhibits, consisting of all the pictures, drawings, charts, clothing, etc., that have been on exhibition during the trial.

Mr. Verge was recalled by the defense on re-cross-examination. He said he saw Geyser first, since the night of the murder, in the court room.

"Who came here with you?" asked Mr. Haymaker.

"Supt. Glenn."

"Did he bring you here?"

"I came with him."

The questions of Mr. Haymaker that followed indicated that Glenn had brought the witness to the court room through the entrance to the left and back of the judge's bench, and pointed out Geyser to him as he sat with his attorneys at the counsel table.

Verge said he came in with Glenn, who simply asked him if he could see Geyser. They had stopped near the door and the witness did not then see Geyser. Glenn and he then moved up to the gate to the left of the clerk's desk, and the witness said he at once pointed out to Glenn the man he had seen in the yard bak of his room on the night of the murder. The man was Geyser.

Mr. Haymaker had the witness show the court and jury how he came into the court room with Glenn and to go through the exact movements he had followed in looking for Geyser.

MINERS VOTE IN FAVOR OF INCREASE IN WAGES

Demand Advance of 10 Cents Per Ton by the Adoption of Scale Committee's Report.

The United Mine Workers' district convention yesterday adopted the report of the scale committee, which was in favor of demanding an increase of the mining rate of 10 cents a ton, making the pay for mining a ton of coal 35 cents.

The committee on resolutions reported back the resolutions requiring any district officer who holds a salaried position outside the organization to resign his position with the organization. The resolutions were directed at Secretary-Treasurer William Dodds, who is clerk of courts and a candidate for re-election as secretary-treasurer. The matter was discussed a long time, with some bitterness on both sides, and was referred back to the committee, which will draft a resolution and report it to the convention.

It was announced that 115 delegates would leave for the national convention at Indianapolis at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow on the Wabash railroad. Heretofore the Pennsylvania railroad has carried the delegates, but James Watchorn complained that line had not treated the delegates properly in former years, and that on one occasion the delegates might as well have traveled in a box car, the accommodations having been so inferior.

The committee on constitution reported in favor of the amendment that no person holding coal mining stock can be an officer or a member of the executive board. The election tellers will report today and objections will be made to the throwing out of the vote of certain locals.

AMBRIDGE MAN RECEIVES LETTER FROM BLACK HAND

A letter bearing the emblem of a heart and a bloody dagger, the seal of the Black Hand society, was received on Wednesday by James Ceris, an Italian contractor of Ambridge. The writers demanded $700 and fixed a lonely spot along the Ft. Wayne railroad tracks for the payment of the money, at 8 o'clock Thursday night. A scheme was fixed up with the Ambridge police to have Ceris pay over the money and leave the instigators open to capture, but they did not appear.

Fire Damages Three Homes.

An early morning fire yesterday destroyed the residence of Nathan Bock, 5411 Black street, East End, and damaged two nearby houses. The Bock family, consisting of the father, mother, three children and a servant, were compelled to flee in their night clothes, so quickly did the flames advance. The home was completely destroyed, only the walls being left. The flames communicated to the residences of S. B. Foger and L. Silverstein, the contents of the two houses being damaged by smoke and water.

Death Takes Last Child of Gazette Circulation Man

The oldest subscribers of The Gazette will share the bereavement today which clouds the household of Fred Cook, the man who for years has looked after the details in The Gazette's circulation department. Fred is now childless. His last heir, a bright, manly little fellow of eight years, died yesterday of diphtheria. The boy bore his father's Christian name. A few months ago the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Cook was called away, and their second child occupies a little grave beside him. Mrs. Cook, whose health has been impaired watching at the bedside of her first-born, is prostrated.

FIRST GUEST OF CARNEGIE TECH

Students Greet President Drinker of Lehigh University With Scotch Tune.

ALL RISE TO "AULD LANG SYNE"

The students of the Carnegie Technical schools stood up last night and to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne" sang their alma mater song in greeting to President Henry Sturgis Drinker of Lehigh university. It was the first time the Tech students entertained a guest, and likewise the first time they had sung their school song in public, but the applause which came from the guests' platform was an indorsement of the melody.

"The Tech school students are moved by the same personal pride in their institution as are those university men who attend school during the day in four-year courses," explained Director Hamerschlag, when he invited the school glee club. Everybody rose when the song was begun and remained standing during the singing. It was the sort of a scene that instantly touched the Scotchman's heart.

President Drinker came here yesterday morning to meet the men of Lehigh, and was the guest of Charles L. Taylor at luncheon at the Duquesne club. After making a tour of the building he met the students in the assembly hall, occupying the stage with Mr. Taylor, Director Hamerschlag, Judge Joseph Buffington and Dr. John A. Brashear. President Drinker was greeted with applause when he appeared before the students. He was the first "outsider" to honor the school by his presence, and the students wanted to make the occasion memorable. They succeeded. President Drinker said in part:

I feel that I can claim kinship with you, coming as I do from a school in the eastern end of the state which is engaged in the same work, and I want you young men to know that we are proud of the younger sister institution which is embarking under such favorable auspices here at the forks of the Ohio. The best advice I can offer is to encourage you to develop your natural aptitudes. A good rule for any young man is to pursue his studies and his training along the lines of least resistance. By this, of course, I do not mean that you are to follow those things which are easiest, but to discover that your work is congenial.

Parents sometimes are to blame for wrecked ambitions. They want to make artists out of mathematicians and mathematicians out of artists. You young men have an advantage here. You are taking up your life work and are maintaining yourselves. You can follow your own inclinations. Study these inclinations and decide for yourselves what you are best fitted for. When you have made your choice, don't be afraid to pay the price—not paltry dollars, but the coin of hard work. You represent the brain and sinew of our nation and I am proud of you.

Mr. Taylor followed with a brief address complimenting the students and telling that the whole community of Pittsburgh and the entire state of Pennsylvania had reason to acknowledge the prestige of the Carnegie Technical schools.

President Morales' resignation and departure from the country should have a calming influence on the constitutional difficulties and insurrection in Santo Domingo. Commercial interests of Americans have been seriously affected by the disturbances and the United States government must see to it that they are not repeated after the temporary lull that is now expected. Our duty in Santo Domingo is as imperative as ever. Ratification of the pending treaty seems the best way of insuring that stability of political and commercial conditions which is necessary to the salvation of the little republic.

Success attended the first of the series of popular concerts to be given by the Pittsburgh orchestra at Old City hall last evening. The large audience evidenced the wisdom of the suggestion that these musical treats be placed within the reach of persons who wish to pay smaller prices for seats than those prevailing at Carnegie hall. The orchestra concert downtown is a great convenience to those living in the western end of the city and adjoining suburbs and is in line with the extension of the Carnegie library benefits to the business section, an innovation which has also met with general appreciation.

In another column appears an editorial from the able pen of James M. Swank, editor of the Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association, on "Newspapers." This article is timely. It is as pertinent as its quotation from Thomas C. Benton, when asked what he had to say of Calhoun after the latter's death: "Nothing. When God lays his hand upon a man, I take mine off." There are newspaper ghouls who do not cease to malign the dead; there are newspaper savages not content to assassinate character, but they try to scalp the corpses. Mr. Swank has a clear, just perception of what a newspaper should be.

Sweden's partial boycott of Danish goods, it is declared, may lead to a commercial war. Many persons in Sweden are still angry with the Danes because a prince of the Danish royal house accepted the throne of Norway. Not only Swedish jingoes, but other parties as well, wanted to see a republic established in Norway. When the Swedes last summer threatened to boycott Danish goods because of the friendly attitude toward Norway adopted by the Danish press, they were not taken seriously, but Danish drummers report a serious falling-off in orders from Sweden. It is an amusing display of temper that will hardly last long.

While we are talking about increasing our trade with China it would be well to pay some attention to the insignificant portion of the trade of India enjoyed by the United States. Of the manufactured products imported into India this country gets but 1½ per cent. More than one-third of the imports of India consist of cotton goods, amounting to $100,000,000 annually. The impressive feature of the situation lies in the fact that while the United States produces the cotton, and has the best machinery in the world for its manufacture, it gets practically nothing of this trade, two-thirds of it being in the hands of British manufacturers.

A cordial welcome was extended to the Chinese commissioners who arrived at San Francisco yesterday. Their mission, to study political and social institutions of the United States, is expected to play an important part in the development of the New China, as promoters of the awakening movement which is spreading throughout the empire delight to call it. The commissioners are men of distinction in their own country, chosen for scholarly and statesmanlike qualities, and as their itinerary includes Europe, it would be interesting to know, upon their return to China, from which side of the Atlantic they obtained the greater number of useful suggestions.

A lively scrimmage in the Democratic party in Georgia is approaching the end. It is provoked by the candidacies of Hoke Smith of the Atlanta Journal, and Clark Howell, of the Atlanta Constitution, for the nomination for governor. After sparring all summer for points in their newspapers both candidates came together in a joint debate at Columbus, Georgia. The vital question is the disfranchisement of the negro. Howell is in favor of a modified measure, but Hoke Smith is an extremist. In his speech he proclaimed with pride how he had guns stored in Fulton county in 1876 to prevent the negroes from carrying the election. "Just as in 1876, we proposed to die or kill to control the state, so we are ready to do today," he declared. That may strike the fancy of the white voter of Georgia, but it is anything but an encouraging sentiment of present day civilization. Mr. Smith certainly has heard of the fate of Senator Gorman's propaganda in Maryland, but it appears that none are so obstinate as those that having ears hear not.

Naming the Next Mayor.

The primaries of the Republican party will be held today to nominate a candidate for mayor of Pittsburgh. The choice lies between two members of the party who have made an active canvass among their friends. Under the liberal rules according to which the primaries will be conducted, both candidates are assured of the square deal to which they are entitled. These rules are in strong contrast to the methods of procedure governing nominations in the Democratic party. The successful candidate at today's primaries will have the satisfaction of knowing his victory was fairly earned, without injustice to his rival, while the defeated one will possess the consolation of having made a game fight in pursuit of an honorable ambition.

According to indications, a large vote will be polled. This is decidedly gratifying. Leading business and professional men, whose previous political activities have been confined to casting their votes, have interested themselves vigorously in the preliminary canvass, enlisting the support of their friends in behalf of one or other of the candidates and making statements for publication indicative of their choice. Appreciation of the necessity for a business administration of the city's affairs, after the disgraceful regime now drawing to a close, has induced representatives of large business interests in the community to engage prominently in the campaign. A fair field is assured both candidates, and the city will await with much interest the choice of a majority of Republican electors for mayor of Pittsburgh.

Surgeons on Football.

There is no better time than these midwinter days, when there is a lull in outdoor sports, for the thoughtful consideration of the dangers incident to football. The discussion which raged so fiercely during the recent season, in which the chief participants were college students, has been succeeded by an exchange of views between older persons, members of college faculties, interested parents and physicians who have attended victims of the game. In the current issue of the Medical and Surgical Journal the two official surgeons of the Harvard football team present the result of their scientific study of the various injuries received by Harvard players during the fall of 1905. Seventy players sustained a total of 145 injuries, or an average of more than two to a man. These figures are for Harvard only. Only two games were played in which at least one player did not suffer concussion of the brain. Most of the victims will suffer throughout life from such injury, being fit for no more than half a man's work, physically or mentally. This is a feature of the game which has received little attention. Crippled limbs have incapacitated many others for the active duties of life.

There is no reason for believing Harvard has suffered any more than other colleges in proportion to the number of students engaging in football, but her official surgeons are outspoken in their condemnation of the game, asserting whatever small benefit it may possess for the few, by affording active exercise, is counterbalanced by the serious and lifelong injuries to the many. The statements made are based upon evidence that cannot be refuted, and form a most important contribution to the current discussion.

Why Communities Fail.

Conditions in America do not seem to agree with communistic societies. Whatever the basic principles upon which they are founded, and they have been as numerous as the societies, their average duration is brief. Five organizations of this character have existed for 30 years, and eight from 10 to 25 years, according to a writer in the Political Science Quarterly, but 19 lived less than a year, and a score of others were dissolved before three years had elapsed. John Stuart Mill foresaw the disadvantages of communism. Among his objections were that each person would be occupied in evading his share of the work; there would be no prudential restraint upon the population, and there would be difficulty in fairly apportioning labor among the members. This last condition, it is said, has been the stumbling block of many communistic societies. The death of leaders has caused the breaking up of numerous religious communities, while financial troubles, due to bad management or the lack of fresh recruits, have brought others to an untimely end.

Many reasons may be adduced to show why the communistic society does not flourish in this country, as in some others, but the chief reason is to be found in the spirit of the American people. The man who holds himself aloof from his fellows, who is sufficient unto himself, is not exemplifying American ideals nor is he likely to achieve success. Thus with communities formed to carry out peculiar principles while excluding "the outside world." In rare instances they survive for a term of years and prosper exceedingly, but sooner or later they are swallowed up by the same "outside world" which they professed to despise. Socialism is but communism on a larger scale.

The Business Situation.

This week witnessed a gradual return of normal conditions to the money market. In New York the rates for call loans did not rise above 8 per cent and averaged 6 per cent. These are relatively high rates at this season of the year in Wall street, but when compared with the stringency which prevailed all last month, they are low. Interior markets continue active and firm, and the reports which the national banks will be called upon to make this month will probably show the largest volume of loans in the history of the country. Except in New York, where the stock market is very active, and on the Pacific coast, where large dealings are reported in real estate, there is no evidence that the activity in money is due to over-speculation. Grain markets are unusually quiet, and thus far attempts to stimulate a "bull" movement in cotton have failed.

Commodity values remain very firm, and this week there was an advance in the lighter forms of iron and steel. The December returns of the iron trade compiled by the Iron Age show that production is at the maximum, the output of pig iron for the month being 39,000 tons larger than for November and only 777 tons smaller than October, which established the high record in the history of the industry. The total for the year was 22,930,000 tons, as compared with 16,186,000 tons in 1904. Despite this enormous production, the consumption is equal to it, and the current year will witness the expenditure of millions in providing additional capacity.

The year is only two weeks old today, and yet new high records have already been made for bank clearings in New York, Pittsburgh and other cities. The volume of financial transactions is greater than ever before, and so far this winter commercial operations have not been hampered by severe weather. At the same time there is no sign of feverish activity, save possibly in the stock market. There is no particular rush and hurry to general business, such as was witnessed during the first few weeks in 1903, and which quickly subsided. On the contrary, industrial and commercial affairs seem to have adjusted themselves to present conditions, and are moving along steadily and confidently.

The False Prophets.

Not since the days Mr. Bryan essayed the role of prophet has there been anything so all encompassing in the prophecy line as the foretellings of a certain "professor" who has plastered the year 1906 all over with dire calamities. Among the things "foreseen" are the dissolution of Russia, the overthrow of Turkey, the assassination of the czar and sultan, a protracted race war in the south, destructive floods in various parts of this country, volcanic eruptions in all parts of the world, great loss of life at sea, disturbances all over Europe, a hot and sultry summer in the United States and a lot of other disasters that come under the head "too numerous to mention."

The ease with which predictions can be made makes one wonder that more of the idle class are not in the business. Of cource, it is all folly. The days of inspired prophecy have long gone by. A perspicuous business man may anticipate certain trade conditions based on the inevitable laws of supply and demand. That is about as far as foresight can go with any certainty. No occult powers are vouchsafed to us, though the guessing match is open to all. The future phenomena of nature and the acts of the Creator are all beyond the ken of the human mind, and wisely so. Alleged "predictions" are arrant nonsense.

The attention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Audiences is respectfully called to the fact that Mr. James J. Corbett is appearing in a Bernard Shaw play. The next menace may be Fitzsimmons in Ibsen or O'Brien in Tolstoy.

King Edward's proposed peace party, to include about all the powers except Germany, is not calculated to inspire peaceful feelings in the War Lord's breast.

Mr. Poultney Bigelow says his testimony before the senate committee will occupy "considerable time." More than the 28 hours he spent at Panama?

The naming of an Indiana town for George Ade emphasizes the fact that there is not a place in all England named for William Shakespeare.

China's commissioners, who want to see how far we have advanced in civilization, fortunately arrive after the football season is over.

It is now proposed to enforce New York's anti-tipping law. Patrons of fashionable restaurants must be prepared for some long waits.

Susan B. Anthony neatly remarks: "Every miss should have a mission." Generally she wants to wed a man who has a mansion.

Senator Heyburn is surprised to find his attack on Wall street has not been followed by any hysterics among the bulls and bears.

Prophets who are predicting so many fatal accidents during 1906 forget that football is to be reformed before next fall.

Some St. Louis newspaper will doubtless be mean enough to send a rescue expedition after Chicago's polar explorer.

The latest investigation in the metropolis seems sadly in need of a competent memory-restorer like Mr. Hughes.

The proposed Federation of Fools should elect to honorary membership 28-hour Panama investigators.

The nation will gladly subscribe to a fund to send Poultney Bigelow to the north pole in an automobile.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

If Not Satisfied, What Are You Going to Do About It?

By ERASMUS WILSON.

There isn't anything in that old saying: "Every fellow for himself, and the devil for the hindermost."

While everyone must be for himself in a sense, it does not follow that he must be thus first, last and all the time. This would be supreme selfishness, which means ruin.

A supremely selfish person may become rich, but that oftentimes means ruin, for the curse of riches is of about the same protection for good as that of poverty.

Riches means the selfish acquirement and employment of wealth. Misers and spendthrifts are well defined specimens of rich men of the extreme type.

* * *

Are you pretty well satisfied with yourself? Do you fully approve of your general conduct? Do you feel that you have paid to the world all that was, or is due to it?

The average man, young, old and middle-aged, appears to be a bit shy on common sense. That is, he does not live as well as he knows how, or as he knows he ought to live.

This average man may have intelligence, sense and wit, but not of the common variety, the sort that prompts men and women to do the right because it is right.

It is the exercise of this sort of sense that brings real prosperity and true happiness, and these are the greatest blessings that man can hope to enjoy on earth.

What's the use o' growin' up?
You can't paddle with yer toes
In a puddle—you can't yell
When yer fellin' extra well—
Why every feller knows
Grown-up can't let loose,
I don't want to be no older—
What's the use?

—Burgess Johnson.

Haven't you sometimes longed for your boyhood days, since you are grown up?

Did you enjoy them as fully when in their very midst as you imagine you would now?

Distance, in this particular instance, surely lends enchantment to the view.

Go back to your boyhood days on the farm, and in your mind go over the scenes as they occurred, and recall your feelings as nearly as possible, and you will discover that you were just about as miserable and unhappy then as now.

And, in addition, you were not philosophical, couldn't perceive the why and the wherefore of things, and couldn't understand why things wouldn't come your way.

* * *

Poetry like the above makes good reading. At least, it makes oldish people feel kindly towards their parents and their old homes, all of which is really worth while. Boys don't care much for it now, but they will like it all right when they became grown ups.

This goes to show that we are about as happy, or otherwise, at one stage of life as at another. As a boy you had about as many hardships to endure, as many heartbreaks, and as many disappointments, as you have now. If you have more or less it is because you have not kept the pace at which you started, or have improved your chances and are now relatively above the plane on which you started.

In all probability you are just as happy and as well satisfied today as you were when a boy in the full enjoyment of the things of which our homely, heartsome poets write, and our choice story tellers tell. Then you looked forward to the pleasures in manhood, and now you look backward to pleasures in boyhood.

Dear Quiet Observer—I have in mind two young couples, the parties to which were in love with each other. John and Mary were the first pair; Robert and Martha, the second.

John and Mary had both been taught that it is a noble thing to love and to marry, and that they ought not to postpone their life-union for such paltry considerations as salary, or place in society, or even education. So neither John nor Mary knew anything beyond what they had learned in grammar school when they began to love.

John could not study because his mind was continually on beautiful Mary, and Mary could not study because her thoughts were always of dear John, so they both quit school and John "got a job." A year later he was making $50 a month, and he and Mary, unable to wait any longer, hied themselves off to the minister and got married.

Everybody said this was fitting and proper. Even Quiet Observer added his approval because it was natural.

But what about Robert and Martha? Well, Robert wanted to finish his education, not merely to be a professional man, but because education is an end in itself. It would require six years, and that was a long time to wait; but his common sense was master, even of the holy passion of love, and he continued in school.

Martha was impatient, but she had a good mother who had taught her the value of self-restraint and reason, and as a result Martha completed a full high school course, and then was taught the art of housekeeping instead of being allowed to fritter away her time in billing and cooing with the boys. By the time Robert graduated she was a cultivated, sensible and useful woman of four and twenty years; Robert was 28, and they were married shortly afterward.

It has been six years since we left John and Mary on their wedding day, and we have seen them but once—a year after they were married. At the door of their three-roomed house a sickly woman met us, and when we shook her hand it was clammy and cold. We asked the cause and she said she had been sick; that her health was not as good as it used to be, etc. Married life was not the sentimental dream that it was on her wedding day.

We left her poorly-furnished house and hunted up John, whom we found a mere shadow of skin and bone, wearily plodding on at his old job with no prospect of a raise in salary. He told us that he had got married too soon; that he did not have a fair chance with the educated man; that the capitalists were very oppressive and ought to be made divide their ill-gotten wealth with the poor, and that life is a cruel burden. We turned away from the disheartened man and left him at his toil.

Six years later we came back to their town and visited Robert and Martha. It was a vivacious, healthy woman who welcomed us into their nicely-furnished and well-kept home, where three rosy-cheeked children were filling the house with the sound of their mirth and laughter. Robert was now a foreman in a large manufacturing concern at a salary of $1,800 a year, with good prospects of promotion. His brain had been trained and he was a valuable man. They had both been in excellent health, she said, and her conversation turned to their plans for rearing and educating their children.

When we asked about John and Mary, she sadly told us that Mary had died three years before at the birth of their sixth child; that John had taken to drink, and that the children were growing up in poverty and ignorance to swell the tide of the criminal and vicious.

Our story is finished, dear reader; this is love traced to its logical conclusion in the one case and in the other. Which shall it be?

In the founding of homes, shall quantity count for everything, and quality for nothing? Compare the civilizations of the world for an answer.

LONDON FOG FALLS OVER NEW YORK CITY

Lights Burn During Day—Traffic Generally Paralyzed—Kitten Almost Causes Disaster.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—The fog that swooped down on the city this morning was the real London article. It closed in, clammy and reeking, till there wasn't breathing space in the whole town. All along the Long Island and New Jersey coasts it grew denser as the temperature warmed, and the banks rolled in from the great Atlantic. But the gathering place of the damp region was this little town of trouble. Along towards 10 o'clock a mass of slate-colored clouds staggered drunkenly over the city, and in an instant an impenetrable gloom had swamped everything. Dynamos were started speedily, and rows of lights began to flicker luminously through the yellow murk. The big buildings took on an appearance of early evening, flaring slowly from top to bottom as the increasing gloom forced the illumination lower and lower in the canyons of narrow streets. A few street lamps were lighted down in the skyscraper sections, where the light is far away and uncertain even on the brightest of summer days. Pedestrians wandered almost lost and helpless among floundering trucks and cabs. Stray policemen shouted and yelled in vain for order. Nobody knew what direction meant in this blinding storm of mist. Fire engines and trucks groped blindly to their alarms, fearful of collision should they put on their usual speed. Electric cars and elevated trains crept slowly from stop to stop, clanging bells and sounding their whistles every 20 feet. Traffic was paralyzed, and the fog hung over the city all day.

Kitten Causes Trouble.

A kitten playing about a gas radiator in the apartments occupied by Joseph Steinthal in Eighth avenue, turned on the gas early this morning, with the result that the family, composed of Steinthal, his wife and six children, were almost asphyxiated. A baby awakened the father by crying, and Steinthal, although half stupefied by the fumes, saved the family. The kitten had been left for the night in the kitchen, and in playing about the floor was attracted by the tubing attached from a gas jet to a small gas radiator on the floor. It is thought that in scampering about the stove the little animal first turned off the gas which was burning, and then turned it on.

Heartbroken Over Lost Job.

"Jake" Curtis, for 30 years a Bellevue hospital attache, died at the hospital this morning. Although a tuberculosis patient, his comrades say the veteran died from a broken heart, because a short time ago he was dismissed for an infringement of the rules. From the day of his disgrace the aged man had steadily declined. "Jake," as he was known to two generations of physicians and surgeons, came to Bellevue as a patient, suffering from an affliction of the legs. While convalescing he was installed as telegraph operator. When the telephone was installed at the hospital, "Jake" was made chief operator.

Into Society Via Lottery.

"It may appear surprising, but I know for a fact that some of the wealthiest families in New York who are now mingling in high society have accumulated their fortunes through lottery," said Magistrate Cornell today in the Jefferson Market court when Emile Heyman, 53 years old, was accused by Robert McLelland, an agent of the anti-vice society of selling him two Mexican lottery tickets. Magistrate Cornell said that men who had secured fortunes by lotteries were now educating their children in Harvard, Vassar, and other colleges. He held Heyman in $500 for special sessions.

There "Wasn't No Core."

Anyone who needs a large man with a remarkable appetite will do well to call at an agency, 68 Greenwich street, that supplies men to farmers, and ask for James Gleason. James, who stands 6 feet 4, wandered into the Church street station and begged for a little food. The policemen chipped in for a purse. Then Roundsman Cohn's supper was brought in, and he turned it over to the stranger. It consisted of two veal cutlets, some bread and butter, and two cups of tea. This was devoured in a short time and Gleason, signifying his ability to eat more, was provided with four more cutlets and seven additional cups of tea. Then Gleason felt better.

Loses Race for Steamer.

Lady Grey Wilson, wife of the governor of the Bahamas, raced across the Atlantic to catch a steamer leaving this afternoon for Nassau and lost the contest. Lady Wilson came as a passenger in the Baltic, and, under ordinary circumstances, would have ample time to catch the outgoing Ward liner Orizaba, which started for Nassau at 3 o'clock. The fog held up the Baltic at quarantine. Although Lady Wilson tried her best to secure a tugboat to carry her to the Orizaba, she was unable to do so.

Murphy Is Not a Quitter.

Friends of Charles F. Murphy said today that he had no intention of giving up the leadership of Tammany. They said that in the event of a fight against him he was confident of the support of 26 of the 36 district leaders. Many Tammany men, however, expect a big shakeup in the organization at the next primary, which will not be held until after the reapportionment, which will increase the number of assembly districts uptown.

A LAY SERMON ON NEWSPAPER ETHICS

Latitude and Longitude of Editorial Criticism—Where Line Should Be Drawn.

The various departments of a good newspaper will not be confined to the mere registering of the events and opinions of the day. The editors of such a paper will have opinions of their own, and these they will express with courage and judicial calmness. A newspaper without opinions on all leading public questions, or which neglects to give important information, and thus wittingly or unwittingly deceives or misleads its readers, is neither a counselor nor a friend and falls short of its true mission, which is the education and instruction of the people. When duty calls a manly newspaper will utter the truth regardless of the wishes or threats of all who would see the truth suppressed, and in its praises as well as its censures it will make no distinction between those who have much and those who have little. It will not cringe before the arrogance of wealth or the insolence of office.

Every faithful editor must be permitted to decide for himself when it is his duty to denounce the social or other shortcomings of the community in which he lives. As a general rule it is safe and wise for an editor to condemn anything which is a public wrong, but it is well to remember that the world cannot be reformed by calling names. Criticism when necessary should always be accomplished by facts which can not be refuted.

Where Line Should Be Drawn.

Just here is where the line between the liberty and the license of the press needs to be carefully drawn. Without the assistance of the press in exposing great public abuses our political fabric would be much more unsound than it is and our corrupt and vicious classes would be much more bold and defiant than they are. But in exposing these abuses the press has undoubtedly acquired the habit of speaking recklessly of public reputations, often foully slandering public servants whose private virtues and official conduct should insure them immunity from all reproach upon their personal integrity and purity. This tendency to speak slanderously of good men who occupy positions of honor and responsibility cannot be too severely censured and should be checked by adequate legislation.

If the slanders by the press of good men in office should be prevented or punished, that a good reputation may be protected, so also should the slanders of private citizens. The press is not rightfully a public censor of private citizens whose opinions or conduct do not happen to harmonize with those of its conductors, and when it essays to play this part it wanders as far from its true mission as does the religious teacher who vulgarly exposes in the pulpit the assumed shortcomings of some member of his flock.

Simple Duty of Editor.

It is the duty of this teacher to set forth the beauty of holiness and to leave the personal habits of his hearers to the proper ecclesiastical tribunal or to the judgment of the hearers themselves, and it is the duty of the newspaper editor to give the news and his opinion of the news and to leave the criticism of private character to the meddling gossips of the neighborhood, or, if necessary, to the courts. The editor who ruthlessly assails private reputations is not a gentleman himself, but a bully, perhaps a cowardly one, and it is the duty of a self-respecting community, and of every citizen whom this editor may slander, to cause him to understand that neither the laws nor public sentiment will defend him in his unwarrantable and ungentlemanly course.

Within the last few years the tendency in the daily newspapers of this country to comment unfavorably and with severity upon the official conduct of public servants and the personal habits and business methods of private citizens has greatly increased, so that it is a very rare occurence when one of these newspapers does not contain a personal attack on somebody, often a successful business man whose enterprise and skill have given employment to thousands of poor men while reducing the cost of the necessaries of life to all men. Even the dead are not spared.

A Pernicious Class.

It is always safe for an editor to assail the acts or motives of a dead man. He is not here to take his own part. Editors of this class might profitably remember the answer to a reporter who asked Thomas H. Benton what he had to say for publication when informed that his old enemy, John C. Calhoun, had just died: "Nothing; when Gods puts his hand on a man I take mine off."

Admitting that much of the newspaper criticism of public men is deserved much of it is just as surely undeserved. The criticism of private citizens that we meet in the newspapers is more frequently undeserved than that of public officials. It may be said finally that an official or private act of far-reaching importance may appear on its face to be reprehensible and be a proper subject for public condemnation and yet the editor who comments on it unfavorably may not have heard the other side or be unable to comprehend it if he should hear it. What, for instance, do most of the editors who are now following a prominent citizen in his attack on the railroads know of the management of our railroads? And what do they know of the management of our so-called industrial trusts that they are so ready to hold up to public condemnation? Practically nothing.—Bulletin American Iron and Steel Association.

Kansas Can Use Them.

"If Germany does not need those 20,000 freight cars she has ordered to carry troops to the French frontier," says the Washington Post, "she might make a little coin out of the deal by sending them out to Kansas, where there is a demand for them to move the corn crop." Well, we guess yes. If Germany has any freight cars to spare, just let her send them on. We can fill them not only with corn, but with wheat, coal, and a lot of other products.—Topeka State Journal.

Cure or Money Refunded.

HUMAN SUNBEAMS.

God bless the human sunbeams
The men both strong and true,
Who daily sing or whistle
At all they have to do.
Their eyes are clear and merry,
Their step is firm, but light,
Their laugh's a benediction,
And life once more seems bright.

God bless the human sunbeams,
The women who, though sad,
Can still be self-forgetful
And other hearts make glad.
Theirs is a blessed mission;
Their smile can make night day,
Their cheery words of comfort
Soon drive all clouds away.

God bless the human sunbeams,
The children fair and fond,
Who come into our presence
Life's hardest lessons conned.
Their prattle falls like music,
Just as a tear drop starts,
Their kisses and caresses
Can ease poor burdened hearts.

God bless the human sunbeams,
Men, women, children, too,
Who add to life much sweetness,
And leave us less to rue.
God bless them all! God bless them!
They do His work so well.
Reward will follow after,
And heaven the story tell.

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Banking publicity matters in the Pittsburg district was the topic discussed at a meeting of bankers and bank advertisers from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, last evening at the Lincoln. Those who attended were mostly members of the Banking Publicity association of the United States, the headquarters of which are in New York. There were also a number of persons present from banks outside the association membership. The object of the meeting was to discuss banking publicity in this district and the bearing it would have upon the formation of a local chapter of the national association. The local will be established in a short time. Addresses were made by C. B. Hart of the Security Trust Company, Wheeling, who was president of the West Virginia State Bankers association in 1904; E. M. Power of the Peoples Savings bank, Pittsburgh, and W. S. Hill of W. S. Hill & Co., advertising agents. George K. Reed of the Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh presided.

I., who bears the honorary badge of an infantry sharpshooter from his excellent record in this service in the far east, passed through Pittsburgh last evening en route to his home in Virginia on a furlough. He met with a couple of members of Ninth regiment whom he had not seen since he enlisted with them several years ago.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN BY GEORGE SEIBEL

THE first novel of the new year is published today by Little, Brown & Co. It is "A Maker of History," by E. Phillips Oppenheim, and is, no doubt, a thriller like his "Mysterious Mr. Sabin" and "The Master Mummer."

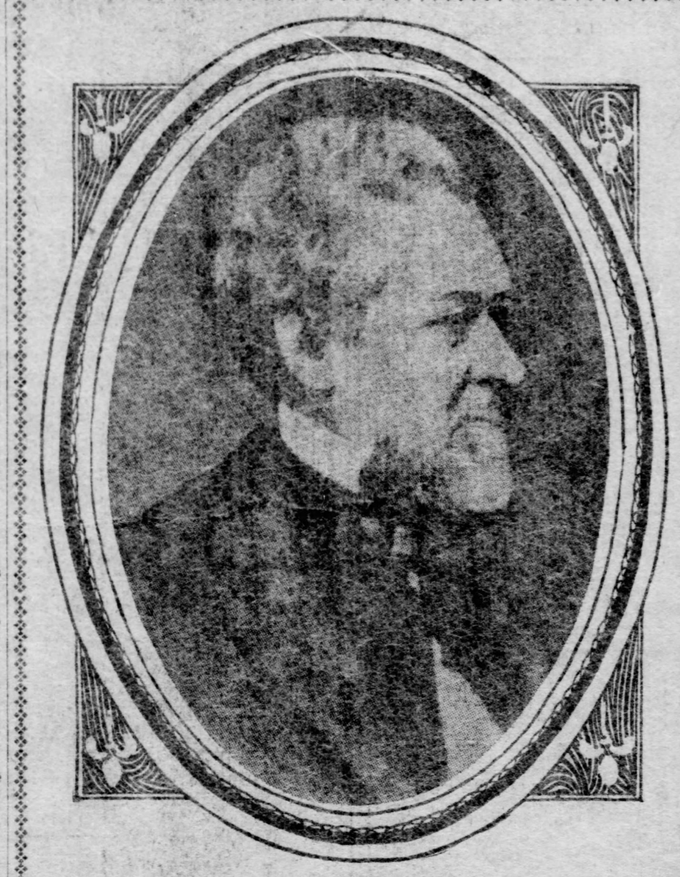
A really important work that made its appearance this week is "The United States in the Twentieth Century," by Pierre Leroy-Beaulieu, son of Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, the eminent French economist. This book is said to be the most noteworthy work on the United States since the publication of Bryce's "American Commonwealth." Funk & Wagnalls publish it.

An interesting announcement made this week concerns a new novel by Miss Bertha Runkle, author of "The Helmet of Navarre," which made such a stir some years ago, when the author was still in her 'teens. Her new book will be called "The Truth About Tolna." Tolna is a successful singer at the Metropolitan opera house, and the scenes and characters are all of New York city. The Century Company will publish the book in February.

GRAND OLD THOMAS WILLIAMS

The Life and Speeches of Thomas Williams, 1806-1872. By Burton Alva Konkle. Philadelphia: Campion & Co. Two volumes, 707 pages, illustrated. Price, $6.00.

THE older generation of Pittsburghers remember Thomas Williams well—"grand old Thomas Williams," as Congressman Dalzell has called him. He was an orator of national fame—his speeches were spouted by ambitious youth like those of Patrick Henry—and his eulogy of Lincoln moved one of Lincoln's biographers to "blinding tears." But Williams was more than merely a show orator—his speeches, like those of Demosthenes, moved the people to "march against Philip," and he was a constructive statesman of the long-headed, far-seeing type. His eloquence, as much as any other influence, built the tariff wall behind which our industries have grown, secure from foreign attack; he was a pioneer in the movement for regulating corporations, a movement which has become the crucial problem of our day; he was one of the founders of the Republican party, and one of the chief factors in its success; and in many historic crises he played a prominent part—notably in the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson, when he delivered the ablest speech on the side of the prosecution.



THOMAS WILLIAMS,
(From Konkle's "Life and Speeches of Thomas Williams.")

It is this imposing figure, almost forgotten in the stress of a new and no less strenuous age, that Mr. Konkle summons up before his readers. In a way these two volumes form a continuation of the same author's "Life and Times of Thomas Smith," which covered the time from 1745 to 1809, the colonial and formative period of our history, while the life of Williams extended from 1806 to 1872, the period of the great schism and reconstruction. But the present volumes are even more intimately connected with the history of Pittsburgh, for being born at Greensburg, in old Westmoreland county, Thomas Williams was practically a Pittsburgher by nativity, as well as residence and interests. Consequently the story of his life is closely interwoven with the history of this city, and a great deal of both is extracted from the files of The Gazette, the initial appearance of which, on July 29, 1786, "the first paper west of the mountains," took place about a month after the grandfather of Mr. Williams had taken out a patent for some Pittsburgh lots, during the first real estate boom in this region.

Many will read these pages with interest for their glimpses of early educational ideals. After his graduation from Dickinson college Mr. Williams turned to the study of law, first under Richard Coulter of Greensburg, then under John Kennedy of Pittsburgh, and on August 7, 1828, he was admitted to the Pittsburgh bar. That he was a conscientious student and became a thorough scholar is evident from the reading course he prescribes for a plain citizen of the state, including "Rollin's Ancient History, Gibbon's Rome, Gillie's Greece, Caesar's Commentaries, Tacitus, Livy, Plutarch's Lives, Hume's England, Hallam's Middle Ages, Robertson's Charles 5th, Puffendorf's Law of Nature, Grotius de jure pacis ac belli, Paley's Moral Philosophy, Vatel's Law of Nations, Black's Com., Kent's Com., Coke on Lit., Reed's Blackstone, the Constitution of the United States, in connection with the works called The Federalist, and Rawle on the Constitution; many of these books ought to be read again and again, until the mind becomes familiar with them." Well may Mr. Konkle cry out: "If this was the program for a 'citizen,' one can imagine what a law student's program might be!" Yet young Williams found time amid these arduous studies and the beginning of his career to take up French, and was familiar with French literature and thought all his life.

About 1830, when the population of Pittsburgh had increased to 12,540, Mr. Williams began to figure prominently in the politics of this section. The feeling against President Jackson, on account of his attitude toward the United States Bank, was changing the political complexion of the state. On February 1, 1834, Mr. Williams' name appeared for the first time in The Gazette among the signers of a protest against President Jackson's action, and a few weeks later he was sent to Washington as one of a commission to voice this protest personally and verbally. While he was at Washington the people of Pittsburgh were organizing a Historical society, and even in his absence he was made one of its governing council. Evidently this young man of 28 was becoming a force, and in the various calls, commissions and delegations that followed his name moved ever nearer to the top. Before long he was admittedly the leader of the Whigs and as editor of their organ, the Advocate—the word Advocate had not then been pre-empted by the publications of the Methodist Episcopal church—he had many interesting tilts with the editor of The Gazette, who was then Neville B. Craig, the historian of Pittsburgh. On August 14 Mr. Williams proudly wrote to his wife: "I have had the good fortune to render the Advocate very popular. Its patronage is growing very fast, and it bids fair soon to drive the old Gazette in a great measure out of circulation."

That his prediction was not fulfilled, none had more reason in later years to rejoice than himself. The United States Bank issue split the old party and brought forward the new Whigs, electing Harrison to the presidency in 1840, but thereafter The Gazette and the leading spirit of the old Advocate were generally in heartiest accord, not only as to ends, but also as to means.

In 1835 Mr. Williams delivered his first notable oration, being put up by the Whigs as a drawing card in opposition to Thaddeus Stevens, the orator of the anti-Masons. In 1836 he was elected to the state senate, where he served during the "Buckshot war," when mobs ruled Harrisburg. He played a courageous role in those trying days and in the investigation that followed. When President Harrison died, Mr. Williams delivered the eulogy upon him before the legislature, when for an hour and three-quarters a large crowd, many of them obliged to stand, listened amid "breathless silence and intense interest from first to last." This great oration, along with all the others of Mr. Williams' career, is printed in full in Mr. Konkle's volumes. It is prolix and ponderous, but be it remembered that Webster and Choate are neither of them succinct and sprightly. It was the age of expatiation and pomposity, of literary hoopskirts and chignons.

In 1841 he made his great tariff speech in Pittsburgh, a speech so luminous and resonant that even in our day it seems inspired, a speech which put the economic common sense of Adam Smith into the forensic eloquence of Edmund Burke. This great speech deserves to be read and reread even now not only because it outlines so clearly the reasons for a protective tariff, but also because incidentally it punctures the socialistic bubble which demagogues then as now (and ever as always), held up to delude the discontented and foment strife between capital and labor.

Mr. Williams' relations with Henry Clay at this time are brought out by the publication of some interesting documents which the national historian hereafter cannot leave out of account. Incidentally, also, Mr. Konkle introduces a new and amusing anecdote about Clay. The Kentuckian was taken to a photographer by Bishop Potter (of Pennsylvania). When asked if he had any preference as to position, he replied with a twinkle: "No, I am Clay in the hands of the Potter."

After Clay's defeat, Mr. Williams retired from politics for 10 years. Then he came forth as an opponent of municipal subscription to railroads, which threatened to become, nay was, a fruitful source of corruption and exploitation, of what would now be termed "graft." His arguments on this subject have an important bearing along two lines of present-day legislation, viz., on government control and municipal ownership.

Then came the troublous times of the Missouri Compromise. Thomas Williams would doubtless have been present at the meeting in Lafayette hall which organized the Republican party, had he not been in Washington on that day, arguing his first case in the supreme court of the United States. He was a member of the convention that nominated Fremont; he wrote the call for the Chicago convention that nominated Lincoln, a call which proposed above all else that "the Union must and shall be preserved." During the campaign which followed, he delivered at old Lafayette hall, Wood street and Fourth avenue, another of his most famous addresses, that on "The Negro in American Politics." Still another address, not recorded except by its effect upon the course of history, is that which Congressman Dalzell heard him deliver from the steps of the old court house, when the secretary of war would have stripped the Allegheny arsenal of its guns to send them south. The guns were not sent. "Grand old Thomas Williams!" exclaims Congressman Dalzell.

During the war Mr. Williams' patriotism never wavered. Elected to the 38th congress, he became "the Sumner of the lower house." His eulogy on the murdered Lincoln, delivered in old Christ M. E. church, in Penn avenue, was spread broadcast, being reprinted in London at Capt. Schenley's charge, and added to Mr. Williams' fame as an orator. His great address on "Reconstruction" determined the line of attack in the impeachment proceedings against President Johnson. His argument as one of the managers of the impeachment was the most masterful on that side. He retired from public life after the expiration of his second term in congress, though he was mentioned for the embassy to the court of St. James.

He died in 1872, at his home in Allegheny, which was No. 11 Stockton avenue. The Gazette said of him: "This man of deep and varied learning, of great professional eminence, distinguished in the councils of the state and of the United States, whose speeches in congress during and since the war were spoken of by senators, representatives and judges as Websterian in diction, power and statesmanship, this man of almost matchless intellect, of incorruptible integrity, faithful to all trusts whether of client or constitution, is no more."

"If he had lived in the early days of the republic," says Mr. Konkle, "when virtue held just sway, he would have been among the great lights and leaders of the nation." It is melancholy to reflect that such a man should already be well-nigh forgotten in his own city. Perhaps the virtues for which he stood were too old-fashioned even for his own generation. He admired Cicero to the extent of planning to build another Tusculum in Hazelwood, and copied Cato, the hero of "De Senectute," who learned Greek at 80, by learning German at 65. He was an ancient Roman cast upon this modern shore of time. The story of his life, the record of his utterances, which Mr. Konkle has preserved for us, is far more than a painstaking work of historical research; it is written in lucid and pleasing style, it is eminently judicial and philosophical in spirit, and it seems to fulfill the burning need of the present day—to be reminded of the great exemplars of pure patriotism and profound scholarship, when every seat of power is soiled by graft, when public and private trusts are unscrupulously bartered under the flag of business, and when a cursory acquaintance with Joe Miller constitutes a patent to statesmanship. Mr. Konkle's volumes, all in all, are the most important, authoritative and interesting contribution to the history of Pittsburgh that has appeared in many years.

Historian of Pittsburgh and Editor of The Gazette at the Beginning of Thomas Williams' Career.

A "PRANCING SATYR" HERO.

The Pang-Yanger. By Elma A. Travis. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 336 pages. Price, $1.50.

Utterly lacking in sobriety and repose, the style of Miss Travis' novel symbolizes its underlying philosophy of life. The hero has been married to a girl who deserted him when she learned he was a "pauper;" nevertheless, he is able to follow her to Brooklyn and trace up their child in a maternity hospital, where she has abandoned it. The records of the marriage are unobtainable, and a divorce is therefore impossible when the hero falls in love with a charming southern girl who visits the Catskills. The resulting situation is garnished with much ecstatic bosh about Pan and the outdoor life. The hero at one time goes "prancing like a satyr through the forest ways," and another time sings "Whiter Than Snow" with more vocal fervor than the feverishest Pang-Yangers. At times he is vulgar and profane; at other times he talks about the "Stabat Mater" and "The Blessed Damozel." The heroine is not so much passionate as irrational and erratic. "The Pang-Yanger" is an attempt to blend the pastoral with the problem novel, and it is a dreary failure.

ANOTHER LOWELL BOOK.

James Russell Lowell. By Ferris Greenslet. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 309 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

A new life of Lowell would hardly seem necessary, there being excellent biographies by Norton and Scudder, and an admirable critical monograph by Prof. Woodberry in the American Men of Letters, but no one who reads Mr. Greenslet's book will deem it superfluous. "So fine yet so complex a life" could not be exhausted by a few siftings. Mr. Greenslet has found some new biographical material, naturally not much, and he presents a sane and just estimate of Lowell's gifts and failings. He points out, for instance, Lowell's gargoyles of phrase and his spiritual power; he errs, however, in finding only two specimens of "clear, unwrinkled song." He errs grievously indeed in comparing Lowell's Dante poem with Parsons'; that is as unfair as to take some incidental minor poem of Milton's to compare it with the "Elegy in a Country Churchyard," creating the inference that Gray was the greater poet. Of Lowell the man Mr. Greenslet's view is most sympathetic and orbital—the completest, though not the fullest, presentation we have. And Mr. Greenslet's style is a thing of rare excellence.

DON JUAN REFORMED.

Miss Desmond. By Marie van Vorst. New York: The Macmillan Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 268 pages. Price, $1.50.

Miss van Vorst has taken an extraordinary situation to build her novel upon. It is a situation which even the great French dissectors of the soul might fail to analyze satisfactorily. Ibsen, D'Annunzio, George Moore, Gerhart Hauptmann, besides these there is none that could adequately interpret it. Hence there is no obloquy in having fallen short, as Miss van Vorst has fallen short. The situation is this: To confront the typical Don Juan with the typical Puritan, letting them fall in love with each other. Miss van Vorst has set her stage very skillfully; the meeting between Bedford and Miss Desmond is plausibly brought to pass; but the figures of both, especially that of the man, lack impressiveness. What would become of Don Giovanni, if Zerlina called him "Johnny," as Molly Struthers calls Bedford "Bobby." This is but a concrete point in the intangible ensemble of the whole character. It must be admitted that a modern Don Juan is all but impossible; even so clever a craftsman as Henri Lavedan had to invest his Marquis de Priola with a haze of fatalism like the medieval Faust.

It follows, from the lack of impressiveness in the principal figures, that the resultant conflict is artificial and ineffectual. The deus ex machina (the machine being an automobile which goes to smash) imposes a purgatorial penance upon the penitent sinner. Upon the Puritan who has learned to live—to love and to be loved—is visited an ordeal of revelation which is really a spiritualized and draped version of an episode in Gautier's "Mademoiselle de Maupin." At a score of points one could draw similar analogies, and in every case the American author is at a disadvantage through lacking the psychological power that would excuse the physical reticence. Only one American has so far possessed this psychological power, Hawthorne—James Lane Allen being the only one that approaches it in our day. So Miss van Vorst's deficiency is quite excusable, especially as she has given us some exquisite pages like that subtly humorous scene where Miss Desmond proposes to remonstrate with Molly for flirting.

MISS MARIE van VORST,
Author of "Miss Desmond."

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

The Professor's Legacy. By Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick. New York: Henry Holt & Co. 322 pages. Price, $1.50.

The professor's legacy is a daughter whom he leaves in the care of a young Englishman. We know from dozens of novels that a guardian under these circumstances always marries his ward, either from love or duty, and that another man appears upon the scene before or after, with whom she generally becomes infatuated.

In the present instance Rosamond learns to love her husband and deserve his love as time rolls by. This well-worn plot is invested with quiet dignity, and life-like characterization makes the book worth reading. The style is graceful, and a pleasing vein of humor crops out occasionally. It is a book of the good old-fashioned kind, before the days of telephones and motor cars.

DIVORCE IN KENTUCKY.

The Ancient Landmark. By Elizabeth Cherry Waltz. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 269 pages. Price, $1.50.

Another phase of the divorce question is set forth in the only novel written by the late author of the "Pa Gladden" stories. Believing that divorce is wrong, the heroine, who is chained to a drug-sodden beast, returns or is taken back to him again and again, as his goods and chattels. Both the horror of her situation and the reluctance against removing the "ancient landmark" of the sacredness of marriage are presented with much psychological power, and to counteract this there are some delightful scenes of Kentucky life. The Gordian knot is cut at last, and most readers will agree that it is cut none too soon. The story is not a pleasant one, and its unpleasant side is accentuated to impress the reading "jury," but the verdict is inevitable.

WAGNER'S SEVENTHLY.

The Gospel of Life. By Charles Wagner. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 246 pages. Price, $1.00.

This makes Pastor Wagner's seventh book. It is like the others. It will do no harm. It may do some good. But as one reads it one feels as when the preacher has got to "seventhly" in his sermon. Pious reflections are interfered with by an insistent desire to look at the clock.

A YOUNG PATRIOT.

The Scarlet Patch. By Mary E. Q. Brush. Boston: Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co. 308 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.25.

A patriotic story for boys, its scene being laid in the Mohawk valley. "The Scarlet Patch" is better than the average of such books. Donald, the young hero, is dismayed at learning that his uncle, with whom he is a "bound boy," is secretly connected with a treacherous band of Tories. Thrilling scenes follow, in which a faithful Indian figures, and there is a vivid presentation of school and home life.

NEGRO EDUCATION.

From Servitude to Service. Old South Lectures on the history and work of southern institutions for the education of the negro. Boston: American Unitarian Association. 232 pages. Price, $1.10.

This volume of moderate size summarizes the efforts made for the elevation of the southern negro since the civil war. Six institutions are presented—the chapter on Howard university being written by Prof. Kelly Miller, that on Berea college by President William G. Frost, that on Tuskegee Institute by Prof. Roscoe Conkling Bruce, that on Hampton Institute by President H. B. Frissell, that on Atlanta university by Prof. W. E. B. DuBois, and that on Fisk university by President James G. Merrill. The general tone is optimistic and enthusiastic.

RIGHTEOUSNESS OUT OF LAW.

Some Ethical Gains Through Legislation. By Florence Kelley. New York: The Macmillan Company. 341 pages. Price, $1.25.

A subtle phase of the social problem is presented in Miss Kelley's book. Legislation is brute force in the abstract; that it could react to refine its object seems incomprehensible. But Miss Kelley shows over and over how the compulsion to do right has educated and impelled public sentiment in such matters as child labor, sweatshops, the length of working-day, the political rights of women, and cognate matters. Students of labor problems and seekers after economic fair play will find the volume suggestive and fruitful of thought.

THE CAMPBELLITE CHURCH.

The Disciples of Christ. By Errett Gates. New York: The Baker & Taylor Co. 346 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.00.

The story of Alexander Campbell's religious life and that of the denomination he founded is told in the latest volume of the Story of the Churches. It is a book peculiarly interesting to Western Pennsylvania, for here stood the cradle of that church. The first meeting-house at Brush Run forms the frontispiece of the volume. History and doctrinal points are clearly outlined. It is a very satisfactory account of a religious movement that will soon celebrate its centenary and now numbers probably a million and a quarter of communicants.

AGAINST THE CANTEEN.

A Soldier's Trial. By General Charles King. New York: The Hobart Company. 333 pages. Price, $1.25.

The canteen question has crept into General King's latest story of army life. He endeavors to show, amid the mazes of a tangled plot, how the abolition of the canteen has worked for the worse. People are unjustly suspected, flirtations and elopements are matters of course, as in all of General King's novels. Blise's book, "Life in a Small Garrison," is not to be mentioned with the lively doings in American army circles, according to Gen. King.

A BOOK FOR MOTHERS.

Radiant Motherhood. By Margaret E. Sangster. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company. 374 pages. Price, $1.

Sentiment and sense are mingled in Mrs. Sangster's new book. It is the expression of her ripe experience during years devoted to studying the problems of motherhood and the care of children. Good counsel is given on the many trying questions that confront the mother from the time when her first child is born until she goes to visit her children's children.

LITERARY NOTES.

Two new books by the Rev. Josiah Strong have been issued by the Baker & Taylor Company—"The Times and Young Men" and "The Next Great Awakening." Practical religion is the theme of the one; a new spiritual uplift the plea of the other. Common sense and eloquence mingle in both.

Thomas Y. Crowell & Company have published the eighth volume of their "First Folio" Shakespeare—King Lear. This edition differs from others in being an absolute copy, in modern type, of the original collected edition of 1623. In other words, Shakespeare is here restored to the original spelling, punctuation, and phraseology, while suggested readings and corrections have been relegated to the notes. Full glossaries and other editorial matter have won high praise for this edition, which has been spoken of as the "Pocket Variorum." It is not only a beautiful edition, typographically; it is a necessity to the student of Shakespeare.

HAS POOR OPINION OF THE FILIPINO

President Roosevelt's Prospective Son-in-Law Discusses Tariff in Congress.

UNCLE SAM'S CHARITY WORK

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 16, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.

Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, Miss Alice Roosevelt's fiance, made in the house today the first speech he has delivered since he became the President's prospective son-in-law. It was in support of an administration measure—the Philippine tariff bill.

Representative McCall's statement that he yielded 20 minutes to "the gentleman from Ohio" attracted a ripple of applause from the floor and galleries as Mr. Longworth arose. He spoke slowly, distinctly and briefly, the striking points in his speech being his poor opinion of the average Filipino, thousands of whom paid homage to Miss Roosevelt last summer as to a princess, his description of American custody of the Philippines as "the greatest charitable work in the world," and his desire that the United States be rid, as compatible with honor, of the islands. He said:

"It is almost impossible to think I could say anything instructing or interesting on this subject. I am embarrassed at having to differ with Gen. Grosvenor as to the brilliant future of the Philippines and the character of the Filipino people.

No Danger to Labor.

"I can vote for this bill with the conviction that its passage will not endanger any American industry or any laborer in that industry. It is incomprehensible that one small island can even produce enough sugar to have an effect upon the price in this country. To any one who fears that the Filipino cigar will compete with the American cigar my answer is, smoke it and you will have no fear.

"I am not in favor of holding the Philippines a moment longer than necessary. I am in favor of turning the Philippines over to the Filipinos as soon as they have demonstrated ability to govern themselves. How soon that will be nobody knows. The average Filipino has no conception of the duty of a public official to the people. He has no conception of the dignity of labor. Until the occupancy of the islands by this government the Filipino had never seen a public official who had any idea save forwarding the interests of Spain and lining his own pockets."

Dalzell's Own Words.

Asserting that the beet sugar industry was the essential factor in the success of the irrigation projects of the west, Mr. Brooks of Colorado characterized as bad statesmanship any move to cripple it. If let alone, in 10 years the sugar beet would furnish half the sugar in the country. In six years the industry in Colorado had increased her production to 85,000 tons annually, with a value of $4,750,000.

Mr. Brooks provoked good-natured applause by applying Mr. Dalzell's argument addressed to the beet sugar industry: "You need no protection; what you need is improved methods," to the iron and steel industry of Pittsburgh.

The statement of Mr. Dalzell that it would cost $4.13 a hundred to lay Philippine sugar down in New York was disputed by Mr. Brooks, who placed the figure at $3.55. The friends of the bill, he said, claimed that under it but 200,000 tons of Philippine sugar would come here. Beet sugar men were not afraid of that amount, but were afraid of the amount they themselves believed would come—from 700,000 to 1,000,000 tons. The Filipino laborer, who would produce the sugar, Mr. Brooks said, wears for clothes a breech clout; he gets his breakfast from a tree; his dinner from the same tree, and works for 15 cents a day. This is the labor that will be placed in competition with the American laborer.

CHARGED WITH BULLDOZING DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Renomination of Secretary for New Mexico Is Before Senate Committee.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Charges against James W. Raynolds, renominated by the President as secretary for New Mexico, were considered by the senate committee on territories today and the confirmation will be held up until they can be investigated. He is charged with being an offensive partisan, which did not have any effect on the committee. Former delegate Rodey charged him with bulldozing the delegates of the territorial convention in order to accomplish the defeat of Rodey for renomination.

The serious charges against Raynolds are that when acting as governor he condoned notorious criminals for political effect; that he had manipulated his office so as to secure large fees; also that he and former Gov. Otero had by some unfair means procured lands eight miles wide on either side of an important stream which they used for a sheep ranch.

The statehood fight enters into the matter to some extent and Raynolds is opposed by the faction which is seeking joint statehood with Arizona.

PROTEST FROM PITTSBURGH.

National Lumber Dealers Make Argument Before Interstate Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(Special.)—F. R. Babcock of Pittsburgh was here today to make an argument before the interstate commerce commission in the matter of the complaint of the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' association against the roads in the official classification territory and those in the southern classification territory.

The main complaint is that the roads charge the shippers for packing lumber on flat cars. Stakes are placed at the sides of these cars and frames built over the lumber to hold them in place. Shippers have been forced to pay the cost of the stakes and the labor of placing them to which objection is made.

WOULD WAGE WAR AGAINST THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE

Pittsburgh Board of Trade and Allegheny County Medical Society to Work Together Toward Establishing Hospital for Consumptives.

The Pittsburgh board of trade aided by members of the Allegheny County Medical society, is working toward the establishment of a sanitarium for consumptives, to be located near the city. It is stated that the combined efforts of the two organizations have brought the matter to such a point that a report on the work accomplished and probably an announcement of the location of the hospital will be made in a short time.

At the meeting Monday night of the board of trade addresses will be made by members of the Medical society on the general subject of "Consumption, the Great White Plague." Among those who are to speak is Dr. W. J. Asdale, one of the prime movers for the establishment of a hospital. Dr. Asdale stated last evening there is no doubt the hospital will be built, and that its location will be known in a short time.

Just how the funds for the sanitarium are to be obtained has not been made public, although the leaders of the movement expect several large donations after the work has been started. It has been hinted an offer of a large donation has already been offered and that the person making the donation desires to give half the market value of a large property said to be excellently located; and the same donor would also guarantee current expenses of the institution. This, however, has been denied.

During the addresses of the physicians at the meeting of the board of trade the doctors will endeavor to bring out the fact there is need for quick action in the establishment of a place for consumptives as the disease is becoming more prevalent each year, and is annually causing more deaths than any other disease. The physicians feel it would be to the advantage of the city to start at once and make a strong fight against the plague.

The meeting on Monday night will also be in celebration of the board attaining a membership of over 1,000, the enrollment at the present time being 1,002. The membership has practically doubled during the last year. A number of the members of the board will leave Monday night for Washington, D. C., to secure speakers for the annual banquet which is to be held about the middle of February.

MILLER ENTERS GENTLE DENIAL

In First Statement Since Fitzsimmons Incident He Quotes "Ill Wind" Saw.

GRIST FOR THE NEWSDEALER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FRANKLIN, PA., Jan. 12.—Major Charles J. S. Miller, whom Bob Fitzsimmons is said to have accused of running away with his wife today gave out the following statement:

"Doubtless the reading public will be surprised when I say that this is the first time since I gave out a statement on December 24, denying emphatically that I had any connection with Mrs. Fitzsimmons disappearance, that I have submitted to an interview, notwithstanding that I was requested many times to do so. Many alleged interviews have appeared in which it was told what I would do to Fitzsommins if he ever crossed my path. I have since been advised they were the products of the fertile brain of a Pittsburgh newspaper man, who called at my home.

"I did not mind the sensationalism much on my own account, for a lie cannot injure an innocent man, but I disliked the notoriety my relatives were receiving. It is only for their sake that I am now making this statement. I have been freely criticised for not attempting to put a stop to the scandalous stories, but I thought every blast would be the last and let them go.

"It is all plain to me now that the whole thing was a big advertising scheme, and I must say that the man who was assigned to keep up his end of the controversy was an artist and performed his work exceptionally well. The old saw about the ill-wind is particularly applicable in this case, and perhaps I shouldn't care if Fitzsimmons has profited by the free advertising, as they say he has.

"Then my newsdealer tells me the 'controversy' was profitable to him. Everybody wanted the papers, he said. But while they read the stuff they didn't believe it, and that is what is gratifying to me. I read the papers regularly myself, and the 'interviews' were so ridiculously funny that I couldn't help being amused. Still, they got rather wearisome toward the last.

"I won't go into the merits of the 'battle of words' except to say that when I go to New York next week I shall go unarmed, and Fitzsimmons needn't be afraid. Incidentally I want to deny the published story that I ever threatened to 'let daylight through him,' or in any way molest him. My dear old friend, Marquis De Ferri Hermosa, isn't dangerous, either. Candidly, that was one of the bright sides of the whole affair, making him out a prize fighter. He never said a word about licking Fitzsimmons."

Friends of Maj. Miller have wondered at the patience with which he bore the reflections on his character, but they attribute his silence to his good nature. All the time that fake writers were putting words into his mouth, he was at home looking after his business interests. Being an enthusiastic automobilist, he will go to New York next Tuesday to attend the exhibitions. The Marquis de Ferri Hermosa left for that city today.

SATCHEL WITH MONEY DISAPPEARS FROM BANK

Mysterious Theft from Counter of Newark, N. J., Institution Baffles the Police.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 12.—A daring robbery took place today in the National Banking Company's offices when a satchel containing several thousand dollars disappeared from the counter while the man who had just drawn the money turned for a minute to speak with a friend.

Leban Dennis, secretary of the George Brown & Company stone works, went into the bank about noon to draw $3,150, the weekly payroll. He deposited the money in a satchel, but as he started to leave he met a friend and placed the satchel on the check shelf. When he looked for the satchel a few moments later it was gone.

The empty bag was found this afternoon by a boy in the hallway of the building at 204 Market street. An alleged bank swindler has been operating in this vicinity recently, his plan being to confuse the paying teller in the matter of change asked in return for large bills. In several transactions the man has succeeded.

PLAN TO CONNECT LINES.

President Callery of Pittsburgh Railways Company Views Proposed Route for Joining Up System.

The Beaver valley is soon to be connected with Pittsburgh by trolley, according to a statement made yesterday by Superintendent J. A. Maxwell of the Beaver Valley Traction Company, who says that the Beaver valley line will be extended from Colonia to Coraopolis, a distance of 11 miles, as soon as favorable weather arrives.

President J. D. Callery and Vice President S. L. Tone drove over the route yesterday and a deal with the holders of the charters and rights of way was closed. The trolley company has tried to connect the Beaver valley line with the Pittsburgh trolley system by a road on the other side of the Ohio river, but was blocked at Baden, Ambridge and Sewickley.

At Ambridge the American Bridge Company opposed giving a franchise. A real estate company secured a franchise from the borough and built the Ecbridge line, from Economy to Ambridge. The directors of the company recently resigned and the new board elected is composed of Pittsburgh Railways Company men. At Baden the borough council has steadily refused to give the Pittsburgh Railways Company a franchise. It is said that a means of overcoming this difficulty was found later. The Sewickley borough council has steadfastly held out against granting a trolley franchise in that town, but hope of getting through on the Sewickley side has not yet been abandoned.

HAS BILL TO REPEAL PHILADELPHIA RIPPER

Committee of Seventy Has Representative Established at Harrisburg.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—Ex-Speaker Henry K. Boyer of Philadelphia, who has been selected to represent the committee of 70 at Harrisburg during the extra session of the legislature, which convenes on Monday next, arrived here tonight and announced that he would stay during the greater part of the session.

Mr. Boyer said also that he had prepared a bill for the repeal of the Philadelphia "ripper," which he would submit to his friends in the legislature before deciding by whom it should be introduced in the senate and the house. This is the only bill which he has drafted, although he said the committee of 70 would assist in the passage of a uniform primary elections bill, a personal registration bill and the other reform legislation enumerated in Gov. Pennypacker's calls for the extra session.

Representative John M. Berry of Washington county, who had charge of the State Anti-Saloon league's general local option bill in the house last winter, is also here for the extra session. He arrived tonight and is the first member of either house to put in an appearance. It is expected that the majority of the senators and representatives will be here by Sunday evening.

REAR ADMIRAL CRITICISES NAVY

Armored Cruisers Good Only for "Scouting" in Caribbean. Battleships Only Thing.

MEN ARE RIGHT; NEED SHIPS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—In an address before the Patria club tonight, Rear Admiral Joseph B. Coghlan, commandant of the New York navy yard, delivered an address on "The Navy," in which he did not spare criticism. He said that while on paper the United States in 1908 would be in second place as a naval power, yet if there were stricken from the lists such vessels as the "sainted Oregon," now a second-rate battleship instead of in the first line, the United States would not rank better than fifth or sixth.

"There is but one kind of fighting ship," said Admiral Coghlan, "and that is the speedy battleship of the line." The admiral referred to armored cruisers as being "beautiful to look at and good for something, such as scouting in the Caribbean."

Admiral Coghlan spoke in praise of government built battleships and referred to the Connecticut, now nearly ready at the New York navy yard. He believed she would outstrip her privately built sister ship and that in five or six years the saving in the cost of repairs would be especially noticeable. Admiral Coghlan said:

"Don't think I am criticising the navy. I am not. There is no finer body of men in the world, but they need better ships and more of them."

Speaking about the need of a greater national reserve, he said:

"We have a naval reserve or naval militia, but the last war taught us that such men lack the stamina of fighting to say nothing of the long experience necessary on the sea.

"Following the fates of various persons we find among our 27 fighting ships some millions of dollars wasted on four monitors," he continued. "In the harbor of Manila, I have seen one of them rolling 20 times a minute trying to hit something with a 12-inch gun—much as I have seen a woman trying to hit a hen with a stone.

"Three submarine ships came to the navy yard last spring for repairs. Heaven only knows when they will get away. As soon as you repair one end of a craft the other end needs rebuilding. The insides have been wholly rebuilt and the only thing I can see to do with them is to build new hulls. I prefer to let them sink."

ENGLISH ELECTIONS START.

Present Government's Majority Is Estimated from 60 to 70—Churchill Is Strong.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The general election opened this morning and by 10 o'clock the name of the first member of the new parliament was announced. Sir Christopher Furness, Liberal, being returned for Hartlepool. The score was soon evened by the unopposed re-election of Austin Taylor for East Toxteth. Later two more Liberals were elected without contest. Nominations were made today in 120 boroughs. The election will commence tomorrow and last for several days.

Conservative estimates give Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman a majority of only 60 or 70, leaving the Irish Nationalists the balance of power. Arthur J. Balfour's seat, East Manchester, appears endangered. Winston Churchill's amazing vitality and enthusiasm have spread beyond his own division and have infected the whole city of Manchester.

EMPLOYES TO TAKE STOCK.

Total Amount of Preferred Issue of United States Steel Corporation to Be Subscribed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(Special.)—According to representatives of the United States Steel Corporation, says the Wall Street Journal, the employes of the company will subscribe for the total amount of preferred stock, amounting to almost 25,000 shares, set aside for them under the profit-sharing plan. As the preferred is selling at $105, and the stock is offered at par, the inducement to take advantage is great.

If the entire 25,000 shares are sold the Steel Corporation will receive $2,500,000. For the three years during which the stock subscription plan has been in force there have been received 44,740 subscriptions for an aggregate of 97,168 shares.

Day, Richard Olney, Oscar S. Straus and Secretary of War W. H. Taft.

Photographic Salon Shows Fine Pictures.

The members of the photographic section of the Academy of Science and Art of Pittsburgh held a reception last night at the Carnegie art galleries, to open the display of the second American photographic salon. On the walls were 350 examples of camera art—examples which prove the camera represents the democracy of art and that it takes rank with the painter's brush as an implement of those who are inspired by the poem of material beauty.

Glassworkers Are Satisfied.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 12.—The Amalgamated Glass Workers are satisfied with the conference held with the manufacturers in Pittsburgh this week. President Faulkner stated today that the manufacturers had signified a desire for better organization, and that with this effective the price of glass will be kept sufficiently graded to make the proposed shut-down of factories unnecessary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The steamer Siberia arrived today from the orient with the Imperial Chinese commissioners, Tuan Fang and Tai Hung Tzeu, with their subordinates and suites, 62 persons in all. They have crossed the Pacific to study the political and social institutions of the United States and Europe. The Chinamen were received by a reception committee, headed by a personal representative of President Roosevelt.

POPULAR CONCERT CROWDS BIG HALL

Every Seat Is Occupied and Many Stand to Hear the Pittsburgh Orchestra.

PROGRAM IS APPRECIATED

By CHARLES N. BOYD.

Last evening the Pittsburgh orchestra gave its first popular concert in Old City hall. The audience filled every seat in the house, including chairs occupying all the available space on the stage, and many persons stood during the entire evening. A larger audience could scarcely be accommodated in the hall. Dress suits were only in evidence in the orchestra, while some familiar faces were noted in evidence in the audience, the majority of those present appeared to be strangers to the regular concerts of the orchestra. The rule against encores was not in force last evening, and the artistic unity of the program was disturbed several times. Hearty appreciation was shown almost every number on the program, and both orchestra and audience seemed to enjoy the informality of the evening. Judged by this success, more concerts of this kind may be expected, and they will doubtedless do much to popularize the orchestra. Old City hall, with its archaic lighting and ventilating apparatus, is not an ideal concert hall by any means, but the execellent acoustics of the building go far in redeeming its faults.

The playing of the orchestra was not up to its usual standard, probably because of the less critical spirit which prevailed, and because the numbers were more or less familiar, being chosen from programs already played this year. Henry Bramsen played Tschaikowsky's "Variations sur un Theme Rococo" with less than his customary care, but was rewarded by an insistent demand for an encore. Mrs. Bramsen sang three Grieg songs with piano, and a folk song, for which Mr. Bramsen played a dainty 'cello accompaniment. This immediately struck the fancy of the audience, and had to be repeated. An ancient Handel number was provided for Mr. von Kunitzs and the violinists of the orchestra, and it, too, was repeated by desire of a part of the audience. Schuman's "Traeumerei," was used as an encore for the Weber-Weingartner "Invitation to the Dance."

This concert may hardly be expected to increase or diminish the attendance at the regular Carnegie Music hall series, but it, and the dates which will likely succeed last evening at the same place and under the same conditions, will do more toward the real aim of the orchestra than many of the more formal and artistic performances which seem to have a better effect abroad than at home. There will be no orchestra matinee today, but the regular series will be resumed next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

JURYMAN KEPT IGNORANT OF HIS MOTHER'S DEATH

Court Orders That Son Be Not Apprised of Woman's Demise Until Trial Had Ended.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Hurrying home to see his mother, whom he had left ill on New Year's day, Louis Gore, a juror in the Hill trial, learned half an hour after leaving the courtroom today that she had died and was buried while he was sitting in the jury box, and that all information of the bereavement had been kept from him upon the order of Judge Audenried.

When seen at his home, 4960 Master street, this afternoon, his eyes red from weeping, Gore mingled indignation with his grief.

"It was not right to treat a man this way," he said. "It was uncalled for. Surely there could have been some arrangement made so that I might have looked upon her face before they bore her to the grave."

BROKERAGE FIRM SUSPENDS.

E. B. Jenkins & Co. Assign Financial Troubles to Death of L. W. Prior of Cleveland.

E. B. Jenkins & Company, stock brokers at 214 Fourth avenue, announced their suspension after the close of the market yesterday afternoon. The firm has been established 10 years and was incorporated five years ago. It operated 20 branch offices throughout the country, with headquarters in this city. The liabilities were not announced.

One of the reasons assigned for the suspension is the death of L. W. Prior of Cleveland, and the subsequent suspension of Denison, Prior & Co. A meeting of the heaviest creditors has been called for today when plans for a reorganization will be discussed.

New Castle creditors of Jenkins & Co. stand to lose about $2,500 through the suspension. J. J. Greene, the New Castle representative, states that he has about $500 of the firm's money on deposit there, while the liabilities are said to be nearly six times that amount.

Oliver, Pittsburgh, and Edwin M. Thomas, Wande, Bucks county.

Greene and Gaynor Lose Plea.

SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 12.—Judge Speer in the federal court this morning read his opinion upon the special plea of counsel of Greene and Gaynor as to the jurisdiction of the court. This opinion was adverse to the defendants, whose petition that they be discharged from custody was denied. Col. Meldrim of counsel for the defense followed with an argument upon a demurrer upon the chief ground that it was not specific in its charge that the defendants had swindled the government, failing to show just wherein they had not complied with the specifications of the harbor contracts they had secured for the improvement of the harbor at Savannah, whereby they and others are alleged to have profited to the extent of nearly $2,000,000. Judge Speer overruled the demurrer.

THE wedding of Miss Mary S. Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Park, to Raymond Robert Neilson of Far Rockaway, L. I., will be an event of the spring. The wedding will doubtless be one of the largest and most brilliant Pittsburgh society has ever witnessed. It will take place in Trinity Protestant Episcopal church and will be followed by a small reception at the family home in Western avenue, Allegheny. Miss Park is now in Old Point Comfort and is not expected home for several weeks. Her fiance, who was graduated last year from Annapolis, is on the cruiser "West Virginia," and is at present preparing for the southern cruise for which the various vessels are assembling at Old Point Comfort. The engagement of Miss Park and Mr. Neilson was announced at his class dinner last summer during commencement week at Annapolis. He comes of a fine old eastern family and is related by marriage to the Vanderbilts of New York. Miss Park also belongs to an old and distinguished family on both paternal and maternal sides. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Sweitzer of Beech avenue, Allegheny, and the late Gen. J. B. Sweitzer. Her wedding will be of interest not only in Pittsburgh but also in eastern cities where she has spent much time.

Mrs. Robinson Entertains.

The prizes at Mrs. William C. Robinson's bridge party yesterday afternoon were won by Mrs. William Ross Proctor, Mrs. John H. Ricketson, Jr., Mrs. Douglas Stewart, Mrs. J. Walter Rhodes, Mrs. Thomas W. Bakewell and Mrs. J. Verner Scaife. Six tables were in play, and the guest of honor was Mrs. William Ross Proctor, who left for her home in New York last evening after having spent the holiday season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Singer of Western avenue, Allegheny. Among other guests yesterday were Mrs. Elizabeth M. Horne, Mrs. Julia Watson Horne, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Thomas McK. Cook, Mrs. James Wood Scully, Miss Madelaine Frances Laughlin, Miss Sarah Ricketson, Mrs. J. Stuart Brown, Miss Mary H. Rhodes, Miss Isabel Chalfant, Miss Eleanor Chalfant, Miss Anne Chalfant, Mrs. Paschall Carr, Mrs. Otis Williams of Staten Island, who went east with Mrs. Proctor, and Mrs. Wynn R. Sewall, who was recently returned from abroad. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., mother of the hostess, poured tea at the close of the games.

McLean-Schultz Wedding Plans.

The date selected for the marriage of Miss Marion Louise McLean and Thomas Steel Schultz is Thursday, February 1. The wedding will be an evening event in the First Unitarian church, Ellsworth and Morewood avenues, and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Minot J. Savage of New York, assisted by the Rev. Walter L. Mason, pastor of the church. Miss McLean will have but one attendant, Mrs. Andrew W. Mellon, who will serve as matron of honor. Albert Bigelow Schultz will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be Edward Bigelow Woods, Crosby Chamberlain McLean, Richard Heys Hawkins, Richmond Macleod Graff, Thomas MacConnell, Jr., all of Pittsburgh, and George Haines Lathrope of New York city. The reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. McLean, in Winebiddle avenue, East End. Mr. Schultz is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Schultz of North Highland avenue, and is a nephew of Edward Manning Bigelow.

Mrs. Howe's Luncheon.

Although small, Mrs. George A. Howe's luncheon at the Pittsburgh Golf club yesterday was a charming affair, with smart appointments. The honors of the occasion went to Miss Marjorie Rea, a niece of the hostess, and Miss Innes Warren, a cousin, both of whom are debutantes of this winter. The other guests were also members of the debutante set and included Miss Margarita Frew, Miss Pauline Dilworth, Miss Margaret Hay, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, Miss Katherine Reed, Miss Hester Harton Singer, Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, Miss Helen Witherow, Miss Margaret Barr and Miss Evelyn Black. The centerpiece on the luncheon table was an exquisite dainty arrangement of pink and white rosebuds. The table was placed in the living room of the club house, and through the apartment were vases and jars of roses.

Pleased With San Antonio.

Letters have recently been received by Pittsburgh friends of Mrs. John Herman Kampmann of San Antonio, who was formerly Miss Mary Caldwell Mellon of this city. Mrs. Kampmann is pleased with her new home in Texas, where she went as a bride a short time ago. Her mother-in-law gave a large afternoon reception in her honor a few weeks ago, and at that entertainment the young bride met the members of smart society in San Antonio. She already had a number of friends in the city, having visited Miss Kampmann, her sister-in-law, prior to her marriage.

Hunter-Libbey Engagement.

Formal announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Maude E. Hunter to J. Templeton Libbey, both of this city. Miss Hunter is a daughter of Mrs. Sarah Hunter of Mellon street, and is a sister of J. P. Hunter and Frank Milton Hunter, both of Pittsburgh, and of Mrs. William T. Drill of Oakmont, who announced the engagement. Mr. Libbey is the son of Dr. J. A. Libbey of Pittsburgh. No time has been spoken of for the wedding.

Boston Friend Is Honor Guest.

Miss Edith Tilden of Boston was the guest of honor for whom Miss Helen Walter of Center avenue, Shadyside, entertained last evening. The guests were the members of several card clubs of which Miss Walter is a member, and enough were present to require the use of nine tables. Six-hand euchre was the game played last evening, and the same will be used this afternoon, when Miss Walter will entertain her younger friends in Miss Tilden's honor.

Notes of Society.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The livelong day Lady Standish had not beheld the light of her lord's countenance.

Upon their last meeting, his behavior to the bishop having roused in her gentle bosom a feeling as nearly akin to resentment as it was capable of harboring, she would not be (she had resolved) the one to seek him first. She had, therefore, passed the day in her own apartment in writing to her mother, and in practicing her last song to the harp—a piece of audacity and independence which she expected would have goaded Sir Jasper into an instant interview with herself.

When the dusk rose, however, and the candles were brought in by the round-eyed handmaid, whose ministrations replaced those of Megrim (the latter was still packing, and seemed like to take some weeks in the process), and the said round-eyed damsel immediately began to inform her mistress that Sir Jasper had set forth in his coach, Lady Standish's small flame of courage began to flicker woefully.

"Alone?" she asked in white dismay.

"Please, my lady, Mr. Bowles was driving, and there was Mr. Thomas behind, my lady."

"Pshaw, girl! Had Sir Jasper no friend with him?"

"Oh, yes, my lady; there was Mr. Stafford, a box of pistols, Mr. Toombs says, and a bag of swords."

"Heavens!" cried Lady Standish. "Again!—and whither went they?"

"Please, my lady, Mr. Toombs says they took the London road."

Fain would the round-eyed maid have lingered and told more, but Lady Standish waved her hand faintly, and so dismissed her.

An hour later, Lydia, brisk with importance and sparkling with conscious power, found the much-tried soul sunk in a sort of apathetic weariness of misery.

"Mistress Bellairs' love, my lady, and will you read this letter at once?"

Lady Standish took the letter from the black-mittened hand.

"Please, my lady, 'tis of the utmost importance," said Lydia, "and I was to wait and see if I could not be of use to you."

Something magnetic in the girl's lively tone gave impetus to Lady Standish's suspended energies. She broke the seal.

"My sweet child," wrote Mistress Kitty, "If you want to know what has become of your husband, you will instantly take a chaise and start off for the Black Bear at Devizes.

"Your true friend, K. B.

"Postscriptum.—Do not go alone. Get some old hag (if possible Lady Maria Prideaux) to accompany you. You will find her in the Assembly rooms. She's as curious as our first mother—you can easily persuade her. This is good advice!"

"I am much too ill," cried Lady Standish, upon a moan. "Tell your mistress," said she, looking vaguely in Lydia's direction, "that indeed 'tis quite impossible I should do as she suggests."

"Very well, my lady," said Lydia cheerfully. "I'm sure I shouldn't trouble myself if I was you. Gentlemen must have their diversions, I always say. If ladies would but shut their eyes a little more, 'twould be for the peace of all parties. Indeed, my lady, though my mistress would be angry to hear me say so, I'd go to bed, for you look sorely tired, and Sir Jasper'll be glad enough to come home bye-and-bye."

"Wretched girl," cried Julia, and her eyes flashed, "what dost thou mean?"

"La, now!" said Lydia, all innocence, "how my tongue do run away with me, to be sure! Why, my lady, what can a poor servant-maid like me know of the goings on of gentles? 'Tis but a few words of gossip here and there."

"Oh, merciful heavens, what gossip mean you?"

"My lady, have a sip of volatile, do! Oh, my mistress would be like to kill me if she knew what I've been saying! 'Poor Julia,' she cried when she got the news. 'Poor Julia, my poor confiding Julia! Oh, the villain, the monster!'"

"Good God, and whom did she refer to?"

"Lud, madam, how can I tell? 'It shall not be!' cries my mistress, and down she sits and writes off so you, as if for bare life."

Lady Standish, rising from her seat, rushed to the light, and with starting eyes and bristling hair began to read afresh her fond Kitty's missive.

"La, my lady," cried the guileless Lydia, "you're all of a shake! I'd never be that upset about Sir Jasper. Why, if your la'ship'll allow me to say so, all Bath knows how jealous he is of your la'ship; and, certain, that shows a husband's affection."

"True," cried Julia, "that's true, girl!"

"And as for those that say, my lady, that some men are so artful that they put on a deal of jealousy to cover a deal of fickleness, I'd despise myself if I was to pay heed to such mean suspiciousness."

"My cloak!" cried Lady Standish. "Megrim, Susan!" She flew to the hall. "My cloak, let a post-chaise be ordered immediately!"

"If I may make so bold, my lady," said Lydia, retiring gracefully with the conviction of a well-accomplished errand, "don't forget to take Lady Maria with you, if you can. The gentlemen have such a way of turning tables on us poor women—at least," said the damsel demurely, "so I've heard said. And 'tis a long lonely road, my lady!"

CHAPTER XIX.

Mistress Bellairs took her departure early. Attired in unusually sober colors, floating in an atmosphere of chastened, matronly dignity, she had shown herself this evening, thought Lord Verney, quite worthy to be his mother's daughter-in-law.

"Monstrous dull," Lady Flyte called the pretty widow's demeanor.

Beyond a gavotte with Lord Verney, she had not danced, but sat for half-an-hour on the chair next to Lady Maria, who presented her with the vision of a shoulder blade which had seen better days, and an impenetrability of hearing which baffled even Kitty's undaunted energy.

When Verney had tucked her up in her sedan, she insisted upon the young peer allowing her to proceed home unescorted.

"Indeed," said she, "I pray, nay, I order you. People talk so in this giddy place, and have you not your aged aunt to wait upon? I am sure," said Mistress Kitty piously, "that your dear mother would wish it thus."

He submitted. He had no doubt that his mother would indeed entirely concur with such sentiments, and blessed his Kitty for her sweet reasonableness.

"Good-night, then," she said, thrusting her pretty face out of the window with a very tender and gentle smile.

"Good-night," he replied, with his young, gracefully-awkward bow.

She fully expected to hear his footstep pursue the chairman, for she had not been able to refrain from throwing her utmost fascination into that parting look. But nothing broke the silence of the parade save the measured slouching tramp of the bearers.

At once disappointed and relieved, she threw herself back in her seat.

"What, not a spark left," said she, "of the fine flame 'twas so easy to kindle this morning! 'Tis the very type of the odious British husband. Let him be but sure of you and the creature struts as confident of his mastery as the cock among his hens. Lord!" she shuddered, "what an escape I have had! We women are apt to fancy that very young men are like very young peas, the greener, the tenderer, the better; whereas," said the lady with a sigh, "they are but like young wine, crude where we look for strength, all head and no body, and vastly poor upon the palate."

She sighed again and closed her eyes, waiting for the moment of the impending catastrophe with a delicate composure. In truth, Mr. O'Hara conducted the performance with so much brio as to convince Mistress Bellairs that he had had previous experience of the kind.

At the dark appointed corner the two muffled individuals who, each selecting his own astonished chairman, enlaced him with overwhelming brotherly affection, seemed such thorough-paced ruffians in the dim light, that Mistress Kitty found it quite natural to scream—and even had some difficulty in keeping her distressful note down to the pitch of necessary discretion.

And her heart fluttered with a sensation of fear, convincing enough to produce quite a delightful illusion, when she found herself bodily lifted out of her nest and rapidly carried through the darkness in an irresistibly close and strong embrace.

"Oh, oh, oh!" cried the lady, in a modulated sequence of little shrieks.

BIGELOW CALLS COMMON COUNCIL

Director Says the Passage of Pittsburgh Junction Ordinance Is Assured.

SPECIAL MEETING MONDAY

A special meeting of common council was called yesterday for Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock to pass the Pittsburgh Junction railroad ordinance, which has been held up for several weeks by the failure of the lower branch to obtain a quorum.

Director Bigelow was directly responsible for the breaking up of a quorum of common council on three consecutive occasions, and it was Mr. Bigelow who gave instructions for common council to be called for Monday afternoon.

"The Pittsburgh Junction railroad ordinance will be passed at the next meeting," said Mr. Bigelow, "and it will have little opposition." Mr. Bigelow claimed that the ordinance will have the support of both Citizens and Republican members. It is stated that about the only opposition to the bill is expected from members who have not been fortunate in securing a renomination for council, particularly Citizens party members, because some of them have been dropped by the party leaders.

It was generally believed that Director Bigelow was influenced by the local political situation in breaking quorums of common council and retarding the passage of the Pittsburgh Junction ordinance, that he, knowing there would be opposition to the bill, was holding the matter up until the political situation was so shaped that the passage of the ordinance could be assured.

The ordinance was passed at the last meeting of select council and the call for the meeting of common council states specifically that the lower branch is to take up select council business. The next regular meeting of councils is not until January 29. The ordinance from select council contains the agreement between the city and the railroad for the exchange of Boundary street and the Pittsburgh Junction tracks. There are also in common council 19 street vacations ordinances and 11 street relocation ordinances to carry into effect the provisions of the agreement which Director Bigelow made with the railroad company. The street relocation and vacations ordinances have not yet passed select, and if they go through common on Monday a special meeting of the upper branch will probably be called for the latter part of the week.

Directors Are Elected.

At the annual election of directors of the Central Trust Company, held yesterday afternoon, the following were elected: Hugh Connolly, John L. Dawes, J. M. Fanning, S. C. Focer, Charles K. Hill, H. W. Joynes, W. S. Kammerer, J. A. Langfitt, Robert Monroe, Jr., C. A. Muehlbronner, J. S. McCormick, W. J. Phillips, Meyer Streng, and J. H. Wright. The directors re-elected the old officers.

THE CLUBS

Miss Sadie American Here.

Miss Sadie American, one of the best known women in America, has been spending several days this week in Pittsburgh at the Hotel Schenley. Miss American came here to be in conference with Mrs. Hugo Rosenberg, the president of the National Council of Jewish Women, of which Miss American is the corresponding secretary, an office she has held almost from the organization of National council in 1893. The executive board, at the close of the recent triennial meeting of the council in Chicago, laid the basis for a broad work to be undertaken in connection with the problem of receiving and assimilating the great mass of immigrants arriving in this country. The plan of work is not yet ready to be issued to the auxiliary councils throughout the country, many details having been left to the care of the president. This was one of the matters discussed by Mrs. Rosenberg and Miss American during the last few days since Miss American arrived in Pittsburgh. Last evening Miss American left for New York, and in about two weeks Mrs. Rosenberg expects to send out an outline of the plan of work decided upon.

Miss American expressed great admiration for the work in various lines which has been taken up by the Columbian Council of Jewish Women in this city, and was reluctant to leave before seeing the Biblical tableaux tomorrow evening. She has remained in Chicago ever since the triennial convention, completing the arranging of the reports to be published in book form for circulation among the councils and affiliated organizations.

Miss American has been identified with the Council of Jewish Women ever since its organization. She was secretary of the Jewish women's congress in the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, in 1893, out of which grew the council. She has spoken before most of the auxiliaries, before nearly all of the national bodies of other societies, and in 1899 was sent as a delegate to the national congress of women, in London. She has been most active in writing and speaking along educational and charitable lines, as well as editing the publications of the Council of Jewish Women.

During the last five year Miss American has made New York her home, and is the president of the council in that city. For several years before leaving Chicago she was chairman of the vacation school and playground committee of women's clubs, a director of the Cook County League of Women's Clubs, a member of the executive committee of the Chicago Civic Federation and vice president of the Consumers' league. She is one of the most brilliant women in the country, with a charming personality.

The Old Southern Songs.

The old southern songs were sung and stories of their authors were told at the meeting of the Woman's Southern society yesterday afternoon in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music. Sickness in the families of the members affected the attendance at the meeting, and also the character of the program. Only one paper was presented, Mrs. B. F. Keene giving a sketch of Francis Scott Key, the writer of "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Peterson sang a number of the old southern melodies. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hugh Pendleton Allen, the vice president, Mrs. Elison Costin, presided.

Will Visit the Bath Houses.

The building committee of the Soho baths board of managers will visit the public bath houses in Pittsburgh and Allegheny on Monday in order to acquaint the members of the committee with such buildings already erected in the two cities. No member of the committee, with the exception of Mrs. Alfred Longmore, has made much of a study of the building and operation of public bath houses, and at the meeting on Thursday it was decided that the first step to be taken was the acquiring of a knowledge of the good features and the defects of such existing buildings before undertaking definite plans for the erection of the proposed Soho baths. Those baths which are already established are the Peoples baths in Penn avenue and Sixteenth street, the Lawrenceville wash house and baths in Butler street and Thirty-fifth street, the Peacock baths on Herron Hill, conducted in connection with the Columbian Council school, and the Phippa wash house and baths in Allegheny. The Soho baths building committee is composed of Gibson D. Packer, chairman; H. C. Bair, Mrs. Alfred Longmore, Mrs. W. M. Carothers, Mrs. S. L. Fleishman and Mrs. George B. Motheral.

Will Work for Industrial Home.

The Brighton Woman's club of Allegheny met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. D. Miller, Westminster street, Allegheny. Miss Lida J. Linn read a paper on "The French in the Mississippi Valley," and "The Jesuits of Canada" was the subject of an article by Mrs. Burchard. The club has arranged to work along charitable lines and attention will first be directed to the Industrial home of Woods Run. The members will spend considerable time from now on making garments which will be presented to the home and will be of material benefit to the little ones at the institution.

Boys Interested in Municipal Affairs.

The Kingsley House Forum club held its first regular meeting for the season of 1906 last night in the club rooms, in the Kingsley house. This being the fifth year of its existence, the Forum club will endeavor to take an active part in civic and municipal affairs this year. Last night's meeting was devoted to a discussion of the candidates for the various municipal offices, and proved very interesting. The club received application for membership from a number of young men. The club will be very active in literary work, as it has been, and expects to contest with other clubs for debating honors. William H. Mathews of Kingsley house, who has been very much interested in the Forum club's affairs, has promised to extend his helping hand to the club, just as he has always done. In former seasons the club has taken an active part in athletics and expects to put a good team on the floor this winter. It will be able to accomplish more work this year owing to the vast improvements made about the Kingsley house during the summer and early winter.

"The Heart of Maryland."

When David Belasco's play, "The Heart of Maryland," is produced at the Belasco theater next week, it will probably have one of the most prominent casts of players that have been associated in one company for many seasons, especially in a production of this character. Among the more notable members of the cast are Miss Odette Tyler, Mr. Orrin Johnson, Mr. John E. Kellerd, Mr. R. D. MacLean and Mr. Wallace Eddinger.

Is Made Third Vice President.

Advices from Calumet, Mich, received last night, announce the election of Louis W. Powell as third vice president of the Calumet & Arizona Mining Company. In accepting the position Mr. Powell resigns as assistant general manager of the Oliver Mining Company and vice president of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company. His successors in the latter company have not yet been announced.

Making the Most Of Your Clothes Money

The original price-marks still attached to our Overcoats, Raincoats and Mackintoshes start at $6.50 and stop at $50. Then come the Fur-lined Overcoats that begin at $50 and go on up to $275. From these figures, unchanged since they were first attached to the garments, you take off 30 per cent when you buy. Lucky you're in Pittsburgh.

Every man who goes out socially needs two or three White Vests and a Fancy Vest or two for business to diversify his appearance. We have White and Fancy Vests marked as low as 98c, and finer ones, including full-dress Vests, at various prices up to $6.50. The 98c ones (less 30 per cent) cost you only 69c, and the $6.50 ones (less 30 per cent) will cost you only 4.55.

The original price-marks still attached to our Men's Winter Suits of every grade range from $6.50 to $36. So much warm weather this season has kept the piles higher than usual. Prince Albert Coats and Vests here run from $15 to $25, and are correct in cloth and cut. The 30 per cent you deduct from the figures named all put into silver will make a cheerful jingle in your pocket.

There are Men's Pants on our tables marked as low as $1.48 and fine Dress Trousers that are good values at the $10 marked prices. And there are dozens of between-figures. Trousers wear out faster than coats and vests. You'll be glad to add a pair or two to your wardrobe at 30% less than the customary cost while this sale is on.

59c Shirt Sale Revived

OUR buyer of men's furnishings has been making long quick jumps from shirt factory to shirt factory, using fast trains, telegrams and long distance telephones, and has expressed us 12,000 more Shirts, picked up from surplus stocks, just in time to give a fresh lease of life to this record-breaking mid-winter event in our furnishing goods department. So we side-track another feature arranged for Today and give these shirts full right of way.

Even better than the original purchase is this new lot of garments.

$1.00 Shirts, $2.00 Shirts, $1.50 Shirts, $2.50 Shirts, at - - - - - - - - - - - - 59c

All Sizes

Plain and Pleated Bosoms — Cuffs Attached and Separate

Takes little or no time to make selections. The shirts are all assorted according to size on separate counters. If the salesmen are all busy, wait on yourself. Go through the piles—rummage as much as you like.

You'll make a big mistake if you think these are hurriedly made "Sale" Shirts or last season's styles. They're the makers' best—being for the most part Spring, 1906, show-room and traveling salesmen's samples. The patterns are likewise the choicest and most varied. Getting these Shirts at 59c means paying less than the cost of the materials and the making.

W. U. P. DEFEATED BY WESTMINSTER

Up-Country Collegians Win Basketball Game from Locals by 33 to 16 Score.

M'CANDLESS DOES WELL

Westminster defeated W. U. P. at basketball at Duquesne garden last night 33 to 16. W. U. P. scored first on a foul goal by McCandless, but in a few minutes Deevers caged one from field and from then on Westminster was never headed. The first half ended 12 to 6.

Three new men appeared in W. U. P.'s lineup in the second half, and for a few minutes things were exciting, but Westminster soon struck its gait and won easily.

Deevers, Lambie and Marks did the best work for Westminster and McCandless for W. U. P. Printz gave W. U. P. a point on account of Furbish being fouled while trying for goal. The lineup:

W. U. P.—16.		Westminster—33.
McCandless	F	Elliott
Frye (Furbish)	F	Deevers
Capwell (Whyte)	C	Marks
Gill	G	Patterson
McCormick (Rose)	G	Lambie

Field goals—McCandless, Frye, Furbish 3, Whyte, Gill, Elliott 3, Deevers 6, Marks 2, Lambie 5. Foul goals—McCandless 2, Deevers 5. Umpire and referee alternating—Printz and Edmundson.

MEADVILLE, PA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—The Allegheny college basketball team defeated Bethel college team here tonight in a very fast game, 21 to 14. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Pennsylvania defeated Princeton in an intercollegiate league basketball game at the Pennsylvania gymnasium tonight by the score of 40 to 5. The game was Penn's from the start, and at no time after the first three minutes of play was there any doubt as to the result of the contest.

The team that had so easily defeated Lehigh found the Red and Blue team to be too fast and they were compelled to play an uphill game from the start. Capt. Vanderbilt of Princeton made repeated fouls. On the whole, Penn's team could not have made a better showing and it now looks as if the Quakers will lead the inter-collegiate league before the end of the season. Princeton seems to lack speed and teamwork.

The lineup:

Pennsylvania—40.		Princeton—5.

Klinath	F	McLean
Fitzpatrick (Patrick)	C	Clarke
McCrudden (Ehlers)	G	Fish

Butler Loses Another to Buhl.

SHARON, PA., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—In one of the hardest fought games of the season Buhls tonight defeated Butler, 30 to 26. It was the second trimming Butler has received at the hands of the locals this season. The first half was played under A. A. rules and resulted in a tie, 14 to 14. The lineup:

Buhls—30.		Butler—26.

SOO EXPECTS TO GIVE PITTSBURGH HARD RUN

Baldy Spittal's Outfit Stronger and Eager to Win the Game Tonight from Local Men.

The Canadian Soo and Pittsburgh hockey teams will meet at Duquesne garden tonight in the second game of their series. That the game will be faster than that of Thursday night is expected as both sevens are in better condition. Capt. Spittal of the Canadians had his team out practicing at the garden yesterday and if it plays as fast in the game as it did in practice Sixsmith's team will have to go some to win out.

The Soo has a fast bunch of skaters and with a little team work will give any team in the league a fast game. Thursday night during the first half it held the locals, but appeared played out in the second period.

There is still a possibility of Roy Brown getting in in time to play for the Soo tonight. Should Brown arrive the team will be greatly strengthened. He was expected here Thursday from his home, but did not show up. The Soo management look for him to get in sometime today.

There will be no change in the lineup of the local seven. Arthur Sixsmith is still pretty much battered up and will not risk playing for a few days. An official referee has not as yet shown up, so that a local man will officiate again tonight. The face off will take place at 8:30. The teams will lineup as follows:

Canadian Soo.		Pittsburgh.
Regan	G	Winchester
Spittal	P	Baird
Corbeau	C. P	Hod Stuart
Clifton	C	Campbell
W. Taylor	F	D. Taylor
Rattey	R. W	Sixsmith
Ward	L. W	Roberts

The Interscholastic seven and the Tech. School teams will practice at the garden at noon. The Interscholastic players who were chosen for the Mercersburg game will report. Charles Carter and Charles Duffy will each practice at point.

CALUMET, MICH., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Portage Lake defeated the American Soo team tonight 4 to 3. It was the first contest this season between these international hockey league clubs. The game was exceptionally clean. The Portage Lake players, who have shown considerable roughness in the past, evincing fear of Referee Elliott, whose decisions were very close. The first goal was scored by Capt. Stuart of Portage Lake. Other scores by that team were made by Hall, Lake and Hodder. McMillan scored twice and Pitre once for the Soo team. Portage Lake's winning goal was scored on a fluke by Hoden. He got the puck from the face-off in front of the goal and shot. The puck carromed off the leg of Hamilton and entered the net. The line-up:

American Soo—3.		Portage Lake—4.
Jones	G	Hern
Howell	P	Forrester
Hamilton	C	Holden
Pitre	R	Hall
McMillan	C	B. Stuart
Laviolette	R. W	Bright
Sweitzer	L. W	Lake

Referee—Elliott. Attendance 2,500.

HITCH OVER REID AT FOOTBALL MEETING

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Football solons representing the two committees met tonight at the Hotel Netherlands, after separate conferences. The old intercollegiate committee met in the Hotel Netherlands. It was composed of Walter Camp, Yale; Prof. J. B. Fine, Princeton; J. A. Bell, Pennsylvania; Paul Dashiel, Annapolis, and Prof. L. C. Dennis, Cornell.

The national committee met at the Murray Hill hotel. Those present were: E. K. Hall, Dartmouth; Lieut. G. D. Daly, West Point; J. L. Babbitt, Haverford; C. W. Savage, Oberlin; F. H. Curtis, Texas.

William T. Reid, Jr., according to instructions from Harvard, notified the national rules committee that his university was willing to become a member of that body. He was subsequently elected. After telephone communication between Walter Camp, on the one side, and J. A. Babbitt, on the other, the national representatives left their quarters and joined the old committee. Prior to the meeting of the two bodies the old committee had voted unanimously for amalgamation.

When the two bodies met a hitch occurred, however, when W. T. Reid, Jr., attended as a member of the National. This was unexpected on the part of the older body and gave the new organization a majority, which was not living up to the spirit of the conference at Philadelphia.

Neither was Mr. Reid's election in the new committee in accordance with the spirit of the National conference, held on December 28. The seven men were elected at the time when Harvard was a member of the old committee, and the numerical strength was decided on owing to there being seven on the old committee.

For this reason it was contended that, although Mr. Reid could be a representative on an amalgamated committee, he could not be a representative of the National until after amalgamation had been agreed upon.

PITTSBURGH LYCEUM BEATS THE HOMESTEAD FIVE

Last night at Pittsburgh Lyceum hall the Pittsburgh Lyceum defeated the fast Homestead team in a one-sided game, 47 to 19. Yeager, Orr and Geisler played well, while Jones and Lowry did their part. Richard Trump of W. and J. made his debut in a Lyceum uniform and responded by caging the ball in one minute of play. Lyceum has not been defeated by any Western Pennsylvania team this season. Following is the lineup:

Lyceum—47.		Homestead—19.
Yeager	F	Lowry
Orr	F	Jones
O'Donnell	C	Steck
McInerny	G	Leipold
Geisler	G	Smith

Goals from field—Yeager 8, Orr 5, O'Donnell 3, McInerny 3, Geisler 3, Trump, Kramer 2. From foul—Yeager 3, Lowry 2, Jones 3, Steele 2, Liefield. From foul Lowry.

Pittsburgh Baseball Club News.

The contracts of Clarence Beaumont, Otis Clymer and Bob Ganley were received by the Pittsburgh club yesterday. This completes the outfield.

President Pulliam of the National league passed through Pittsburgh yesterday on his way to New York from Cincinnati.

The deal for a pitcher is still on. In fact there are two deals, one of which should go through.

Blue Rock Shoot at Cumberland.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Jan. 12.—Secretary W. T. Crawford of the Cumberland Shooting club has issued the program for the second annual mid-winter shoot, which will take place here on January 18. The program includes 12 blue-rock target events.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

The management of the Latrobe Boxing and Wrestling club have made arrangements to handle a large crowd at its show this evening. The ring has been placed in the center of the hall, and everybody will get a good view of the bouts. Alex Laird, of whom the club members think so well, is to meet Joe Keally in the main bout. Both men are confident that they will produce the knockout punch. Al. Martin is to meet Young Acker in the preliminary, and for a curtain raiser the Foster Midgets will go on.

As the time draws near a great deal of interest seems to be manifested in the pugilistic events at Monessen on Monday night next. A large attendance is already assured, and there is very little doubt that every lover of the fistic art who attends will be amply repaid. There will be five bouts, the principal one being between Jimmie Frazier and Kid Zember. The others are: Jock Sinco vs. Dan Reardon, Young Bijou vs. Young Mahoney, Tommie Trimble vs. Pat Herly, Kid Sullivan vs. Kid Glink. The men are all in good condition, having trained faithfully, and, inasmuch as there are some old scores to settle, a lively evening's entertainment may be safely promised.

John Beck, better known as Jocko, would like to meet Connie Wiggins of the Pastime club.

INDEPENDENT BASEBALL.

Pitcher Reed of Freeport, last year in the Cumberland league, has signed with Albany of the New York State league.

Umpire Frank Moran will not accept any league job this year. He finished last season in the Eastern league.

INDEPENDENT BASEBALL CLUBS FORM A STRONG LEAGUE; THREE STATES IN IT

Braddock, Washington, Waynesburg, Uniontown, East Liverpool, Fairmont, Clarksburg.

Richard Guy Is Chosen President—Another Meeting for Jan. 27 in Pittsburgh.

McKeesport and Steubenville Will Probably Be Admitted to Make Out the Circuit.

The Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia Baseball league, composed of leading independent towns, was organized yesterday afternoon at a meeting in The Gazette office. Seven towns were represented and another will be selected at a future meeting to make the league an eight-club affair.

The towns who had representatives present yesterday were: Braddock, by Don McKim; Waynesburg, Sherman Grim, Sheriff John Koebert and Milton Montgomery; Washington, William Seamon; Uniontown, James D. Gronninger and Harry Wilhelm; East Liverpool, O., G. T. Travis; Fairmont, W. Va., Thomas Haymond and Ed. Slack; Clarksburg, F. J. Welch.

Richard R. Guy of The Gazette was the unanimous choice for president and secretary. Another meeting will be held Saturday, January 27, and then another city will be admitted. McKeesport and Steubenville were considered by the managers yesterday. Frank Torreyson has a club for McKeesport, and it is understood that Steubenville has substantial backing for the support of a team.

Each team will post a forfeit of $500 as an evidence of good faith. The schedule committee, which is yet to be appointed, will probably have the first game carded for June 1 and the last September 15. Fairmont and Clarksburg will play Sunday ball.

Mr. Travis acted as chairman of the meeting yesterday, and Seamon secretary. The respective managers and representatives all reported bright and encouraging prospects for the season. One pleasing feature was the announcement that James Gronninger of the West Virginia university and a former captain of that team, and Morgan Bowman of Uniontown, the former Yale baseball and football captain, would manage the Uniontown team. Business men are raising the money, and they will act as manager and captain respectively. Bowman is at present teaching in the Hill school, Pottstown, Pa., but he will return home in time to start the championship season.

Harry Tate, who was spoken of as manager of the East Liverpool team, said yesterday he had not yet closed with that club. Manager Stanton of the W. and J. college baseball team, happened in on the meeting, and he had a conversation with Tate, and offered him the position as coach of the candidates at Washington and Jefferson this spring.

There was a great match played in the Pittsburgh section last night between the Ungers, the leaders in the section, and the Glenwoods. The Glenwoods won two out of three games. VOTEL IS THE WINNER.

Defeats Houlahen in Their Series of 12 Games by 49 Pins.

The last series of four games between Harry Votel and Danny Houlahen for $100 a side was rolled at the Club alleys last night, and Votel won out. Houlahen was 29 pins in the lead when the series began. Votel won three of the four games, Houlahen taking the second by seven pins. In the total pins Votel won by 49. Subtracting the 30 of a lead, he won out by 49 pins. The match created a great deal of interest among the bowlers in this section, and in consequence the Club alleys last night were crowded. Votel is the champion of Allegheny county and demonstrated his claim to the title by beating one of the gamest bowlers in this section. The champion showed up strong by making the highest score in the fourth and last game. Scores:

Harry Votel	192	173	164	222
Danny Houlahen	157	180	178	152

There is now talk of a match between Votel and a prominent Allegheny bowler.

RAILROAD FILES ANSWER TO SUIT

Claims It Must Remove Tracks from Liberty Avenue Under City Agreement.

TRUANT CARLISLE IN COURT

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company filed its answer to the suit of the Union Storage Company to restrain it from taking its tracks from Liberty avenue. The defendant makes much of its agreement with the city of Pittsburgh, made at the time the railroad was granted franchises along Duquesne way. The storage company wants the restraining order because it says it will injure its warehouses at the lower end of Liberty avenue.

The defendant company says the true purpose of the railroad in constructing its freight depot and railroad was to afford and improve shipping facilities, and as a result there has been a development of the shipping interests and industries generally along the line.

It denied the portion of the line and freight station named in the bill were any different in this regard than any other portion of its line, it being the purpose in the original construction and in all subsequent changes and improvements, to improve and better shipping facilities as well as in the interests of the public. The defendant denies the right of the plaintiff to regard the location of its tracks on Liberty avenue as permanent more than any other part of the road. It is denied that the plaintiff's property is solely adapted to warehouse purposes, it is averred it has a market value for many other purposes and that neither the property nor the improvements on it will be lost or destroyed by reason of the failure to continue railroad connections. It is alleged there are other suitable sites down town.

Desires to Relieve Congestion.

For many years the tracks on Liberty avenue, says the defendant, have been a growing incumbrance to traffic and, desiring to relieve the city, the tracks were relocated by an ordinance requiring the company to move its tracks. If the railroad had not done so, the answer states, the company would not have been granted the Duquesne way franchises. The change, it says, was for the best interests of the railroad and the public, and if the plaintiff has suffered damage, it is beyond the defendant's power to relieve, and which is incident to a necessary change of tracks, of the possibility of which all persons are bound to take notice. The railroad company asks that the bill filed be dismissed.

In criminal court George Bearori, an alleged highwayman, was sentenced to 18 months to the penitentiary. He was convicted of holding up Joseph Maizer in Robp street and stealing $200 from him. Leo Siebert was acquitted on a charge of larceny made by Detective A. H. Swinehart of the Pennsylvania railroad. Siebert was a trusted employe of the company and had keys to the lockers in Pullman dining cars. He was charged with robbing the lockers of whisky, tobacco and cigarets.

Thomas Rosenshine, convicted of having in his possession two ice cream freezers which had been stolen from Thomas McTighe, was sentenced 30 days to jail.

Elusive Truant Captured.

John Carlisle, whose elusiveness has resulted in his escaping arrest by truant officers, probation officers and deputy sheriffs, but who finally came to grief at the hands of a deputy sheriff Thursday night, after being at liberty nearly four months, was before Judge Young in juvenile court. Young Carlisle, who is 13 years old, and exceedingly bright, was charged with playing truant from school. He resides with his parents in Rebecca street, Allegheny, and the latter and Supt. Morrow of the Allegheny schools, were present in court when the case was called. Judge Young took quite an interest in the little fellow, and after Supt. Morrow has explained the serious nature of his "crime," the judge called the boy up on the bench beside him and talked with him in a fatherly manner. The boy promised never to play truant again, and Judge Young discharged the case.

Marie Sauter and Lydia Jukes, who together with Isabella Jukes, a smaller sister of Lydia, were taken from a Chinese resort in Diamond street by the police, were sent to reformatories. The Sauter girl was committed to the Home of the Good Shepherd and her companions to Morganza. The case of Isabella Jukes was held over, as she is suffering from consumption.

Bertha A. Grimm was granted a divorce from Harry J. Grimm on grounds of desertion and infedility. They were married in October, 1888, and four children were born to them. He deserted her five years ago. The wife says he is now living with Lulu Groves at 11 Grandview avenue, Mrs. Grimm keeps a boarding house in Penn avenue, East End.

Borough's Powers Limited.

Judge Fraser filed an opinion in which he said a borough has not the same powers as a city to grade a street without petition by the abutting property owners. It was in an injunction suit to restrain the borough of Emsworth from grading Beaver avenue at the cost of the owners of the abutting property, as provided by an ordinance. In the absence of a signed petition the court holds the ordinance to be invalid.

The third and partial account of Joseph G. Wainwright shows charges of $45,145.04 with a balance of $23,168.43. The first and final account of Sarah N. McCandless shows charges of $39,559.73 against the accountants, the bulk of which is local stocks and a $10,000 mortgage.

Rachel A. Bencke left $150 to the missionaries of the Sacred Heart of Watertown, N. Y., $150 to St. Paul's Orphan asylum, $100 to St. Joseph's protectory, and $20 to establish a bed in the protectory. The rest of a $3,000 estate goes to relatives.

Mary Croft left $1,100 to her husband. Attorney W. C. Dickon filed the will.

Arbitrators awarded the plaintiff $6,865.00 in the suit of John Sweeney for use of the Metropolitan National bank against the city of Pittsburgh, an action on a city contract.

A summons in trespass was filed by Cornelius O'Neil against Patrick Lowlor. The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys L. K. and S. G. Porter.

Judge Miller allows the claim of $406 of Mrs. Martha J. Hicks against the estate of John Cook, but does not allow her interest on the entire sum from May 28, 1885, although she alleged Cook signed an agreement to this effect, despite the fact that the various sums involved were loaned at different times.

Agnes T. Hortstein, who has a grocery at Donora, filed a petition in bankruptcy. Her liabilities are $572 and assets $893.

DEALING FOR "LEADER."

Attorney John P. Hunter, Acting for Clients, Is Buying Newspaper—Denies Flinn Is Principal.

After many reports for several weeks it was officially announced yesterday that the ownership of the Pittsburgh Leader will be transferred to other hands. Attorney John P. Hunter, acting for the propable purchasers gave out a statement to the effect that the purchase had been practically consummated, but he declined to give the names of the buyers.

He said the purchase price amounted to seven figures. It has been stated by parties who claimed to know that the price was $1,200,000. Mr. Hunter's statement is as follows:

It is proper for me to state that a preliminary agreement has been entered into by which, if consummated, I become the owner of the capital stock of the Leader Publishing Company, in trust for private clients. As comments have been made in the newspapers upon the pending negotiations, in which it has been said that William Flinn is my principal, or one of them, I have now to state that he is not interested in this transaction in any way.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—Wasted to a Skeleton—Awful Suffering for Over a Year—Grew Worse Under Doctors—Skin Now Clear.

WOULD HAVE DIED BUT FOR CUTICURA.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh.

"He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My Aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Soap to try and a little of the Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little.

"I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since.

"He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn, April 22, 1905."

STOCK MARKET ACTIVE AND THE TONE BUOYANT

Largest Dealings for Any Day This Year, Sales Approximating 2,000,000 Shares—Mining Stocks the Active Local Features.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was the most active so far this year, the sales footing up nearly 2,000,000 shares. The tone was steady to firm most of the day, but in the final hour became buoyant, and several prominent stocks advanced to the highest prices on this movement. Sentiment was very bullish at the close, and there appeared to be a better feeling in foreign financial circles.

The most active stocks were Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific, and as they have been the recognized leaders of the market on the present movement, they exerted a powerful influence upon the general list. Amalgamated Copper became positively buoyant in the final dealings and touched 114⅞, the highest price since the stock ceased to pay 8 per cent on par. The copper stocks in the Boston market were also active, strong and higher, and just before the end of the day there were signs of a revival of activity in United Copper, based partly on a report of an important strike in one of the properties of the company, and partly on the increasing belief that a close affiliation of United and Amalgamated is only a question of time. Anaconda Copper, after the usual wide fluctuations, closed 1 per cent higher for the day. American Smelting was fairly active and at one time advanced to 167, but it subsequently reacted and closed only a fraction higher.

The movement in Union Pacific carried the price up to 158¼, the highest ever quoted, and it closed with a net advance of 1¾ per cent. No news accompanied this advance, but it was effective upon the entire western group of stocks. Great Northern preferred opened 5 points higher at 313 and advanced to 320½, the highest ever quoted, closing with a net gain of 10⅝ per cent. Northern Pacific closed 2¼ per cent higher, and other high-grade western stocks from ½ to 1½ per cent higher. Missouri Pacific made a strong rally in the latter part of the session and closed at an advance of 2⅜ per cent. Pennsylvania reached 145⅞, the highest of the year, but closed only ¼ higher for the day. Reading closed ⅞ higher and Baltimore & Ohio 1½ higher. Erie was active, rising from 49½ to 50⅜, and closing with a net gain of 1⅜ per cent.

Among the specialties, Denver & Rio Grande advanced sharply and closed with a gain of 3⅜ per cent. Colorado Southern sold off and closed unchanged, on a report that the deal for change of control of the property had been declared off. Southern Railway was firm and closed ⅞ higher.

The feature of the iron and steel group was the strength of Tennessee Coal and Iron, which advanced 5 per cent to 165, the highest ever quoted, but later reacted to 160. Colorado Fuel and Iron was also active and higher, selling at 61½, the highest on this movement. United States Steel issues were active, but the common closed ⅛ lower and the preferred ⅛ higher. Republic Iron and Steel and some of the minor issues closed slightly lower for the day.

Call loan rates ruled easy at 4@5 per cent, and time loans were slightly lower. The greatest expectations are being entertained as to today's bank statement. It is estimated that the banks have gained between $11,500,000 and $12,000,000 cash during the week, and while it is possible that there has been an increase in loans, a large addition to the surplus reserves is looked for. There is also some expectation that the Imperial Bank of Germany will reduce its rate of discount today, and the advance in English consols indicated an easier tendency in that market.

In the local stock market the most excitement and the largest dealings were in the mining department. Tonopah Extension opened firm, advanced to $8.45, sold off to $8.05 and closed at $8.10, a net loss of 25 cents a share. The manipulation still seemed to be directed toward accumulating stock. In the curb market Golden Anchor, a related stock, was very active and strong, advancing from $1.20 to $1.55 and reacting to $1.47 on sale of 20,000 shares. These are the highest prices ever quoted for the stock, the par value of which is $1 a share. Ohio Tonopah on sales of 12,100 shares advanced to 32 cents a share, the highest price since the recent sale of a block of treasury stock. Advices from San Francisco stated that the outlook for the company was improving. Lustre Mining rallied a dollar a share to 32 and closed at 32½ bid. The recent break in this stock was due to the discussion of the floating debt, which is said to approximate $750,000, and some differences of opinion have arisen as to the manner of liquidating this debt and furnishing additional capital. Just before the market closed United Copper became strong, and after selling at 64¾, advanced to and closed at 65⅜ bid.

There was less activity in the regular industrial list, but the tone of the market was firm. Crucible Steel issues closed steady and unchanged. National Fire Proofing preferred advanced to and closed at 26⅜. Manufacturers Light and Heat was firmer at 34⅜. Philadelphia Company common declined ⅝. American Sewer Pipe rallied to 33¾ and reacted to 32 at the close. Westinghouse Electric was firm, advancing to 86. Pittsburgh Coal preferred rallied to 50½, but reacted to and closed offered at 50. River Coal preferred was unchanged at 25. Independent Brewing bonds declined a fraction to 105¼. The rest of the market closed steady and unchanged.

BUILDING GAIN OF 40 PER CENT

Year 1905 Makes Most Remarkable Showing Ever Noted in This Country.

TOTAL IS OVER $528,186,020

Reports compiled by The Construction News of Chicago show that the United States in 1905 surpassed all previous building records by 40 per cent, making by far the most remarkable showing ever noted in this country. This summary was made up from statistics received from 26 of the largest cities. They do not include the hundreds of small cities and big towns where the proportion of gain was according to the best data obtainable even greater. Conditions throughout the year were on the whole favorable to building, and the tremendous impetus that was given to business early in the year necessitated the expenditure of millions of dollars to provide the needed quarters. The general prosperity the country enjoyed was reflected to a remarkable degree in the amount of house building reported, every one of the 26 cities having made this a feature of their reports.

The grand total of building operations in the cities mentioned below was $528,186,412, as compared with $376,571,130 for 1904. Only four of the cities showed losses. Atlanta, Seattle, Pittsburgh and Memphis. In Pittsburgh this is accounted for by the fact that in 1904 an unusually large number of costly buildings were started.

The following table shows the records of the cities in detail:

Leases in Machesney Building.

Although the Machesney building in Fourth avenue, adjoining the Pittsburgh stock exchange, has been in the market for renting only two weeks, one of the two ground floor rooms in the building has been taken by a stock brokerage firm. The lease is for five years at $12,000 a year. The main room will be 24x90 feet and very handsomely finished. In the rear there will be two private offices. Another local firm is now dealing for a long lease on the other ground floor room, which corresponds to the one rented. Fully 25 per cent of the 220 offices in the building have already been rented by George S. Elder, who, since his being appointed renting agent, has taken up his quarters in the German National Fire Insurance building, across the street. The majority of the tenants and applicants are brokers and insurance men, for whom there is no better location. A good number, too, of the Machesney tenants will be coal and manufacturing firms, judging from present inquiries. Architect Thomas H. Scott is rushing work on the building, so that it may be completed by March 15, thus giving the tenants plenty of time to get into their offices before April 1.

In this connection it is pertinent to deny a rumor which has been in circulation for a few days that the proposed Berger building at Fourth avenue and Grant street would not be erected. It is announced that Architect S. B. Beman of Chicago has not only completed plans for the structure, but has awarded the contracts for some of the materials. No general contract will be let, but all work will be done by sub-contracts, and these will be let as fast as there is need. The old buildings on the corner will be torn down April 1. It is announced that the Berger building will be a 16-story structure instead of a 12-story building, and the agents, Avey & Irish, are booking many inquiries for office rooms, especially from attorneys.

East End Buyer Announced.

Attorney R. B. Petty proves to be the buyer of the Moreland and Davis lots in Broad street, which were sold this week for $50,000 and $22,500 respectively. The deals were made by George B. Kelly and the Kelly-Wood Real Estate Company. These purchases give Mr. Petty 38x145 feet at the southeast corner of Broad street and Collins avenue, and he will hold the site for an investment. The two lots cost him $638 a foot for the Broad street frontage. Two years ago, when Mr. Moreland bought the corner lot, 38x145 feet, for $30,000, the deal was looked upon as foolish by many investors, who thought the price a hazardous one. But he has just doubled his money, besides getting a very good income on his investment while he held the property.

Through the office of C. C. Hamilton, Francis X. Barr has sold to Margaret Dunlea a residence property, 60x100 feet, in Marchand street, near Shady avenue, Twentieth ward, for $11,000. The residence is a modern brick house of 11 rooms, and was bought for a home.

Thomas S. Parker has sold to Charles W. Houston an improved property, 50x112 feet, at the northwest corner of Rippey and Beatty streets, Nineteenth ward, for $12,000.

Get Rooms in Thaw Block.

Two good leases have been made in the new Thaw building at Wood street and Third avenue by the Commonwealth Real Estate Company. To the George H. Alexander Company, stationers, it leased the corner half of the building, four stories high and 21x80 feet, for five years. The Alexander company is now in the Holmes building at Wood street and Fourth avenue, which will be torn down April 1. To the H. A. Schaefer News Company the Commonwealth has rented for a term of years two floors, 40x40 feet, at 307-309 Third avenue, in the rear part of the Thaw block.

J. H. McClelland, formerly of the real estate firm of Robinson, Bruckman & McClelland, has accepted a position with the firm of Liggett, Lennox & Watkins as a salesman, and took up his quarters in the Fourth avenue office yesterday.

Allegheny: Copeland & Melhuish sold for Mrs. Emma V. Pafenbach, 460 Jackson street, Second ward, Allegheny, an eight-room brick house on 20x80 feet, for $6,000.

Allegheny: The Aronson Realty Company sold for the Wabash Cigar Company to Jacob Tannenbaum, 83 West Robinson street, Allegheny, a six-room brick house on 18x22 feet.

James C. Drane & Co. report having placed these mortgages: $15,000, $6,000, $7,500, $5,000, $4,000, $3,500, $2,000, $1,200, $1,000, $900, $700 and $500 on residence properties in the East End, Allegheny, South Side and suburbs, all at 6 per cent.

Webster avenue: Morris Snyder sold to Annie Rubenstein an improved lot, 20x82 feet, on the northwest side of Webster avenue, near Mercer street, Eighth ward, for $5,000.

Copeland street: G. W. Heckel sold to John Floyd an improved lot, 25x100 feet, in Copeland street, Twentieth ward, for $4,650.

Kirkpatrick street: Jacob Morotsky is the buyer of the former P. J. Byrne property at 714 Kirkpatrick street, which was sold a few days ago by the Aronson-Friedman Company for $3,000. Irs. Aronson bought the property first for $2,500. The lot is 16x50 feet and on it is a nine-room brick house.

Building Permits Issued.

The bureau of building inspection granted the following permits yesterday: George F. Bender, one three-story brick veneered apartment house, Hamilton, near Dallas avenue, Twenty-first ward, to cost $13,500; Charles Parrish, one two-story brick veneered and attic dwelling, McKee place, Fourteenth ward, $7,000; Samuel McCaslin, one two-story brick veneered and attic dwelling, Euclid, near Stanton avenue, Nineteenth ward, $6,000; Emma Parke, three two-story brick veneered and attic dwellings, Edgerton and Lang avenues, Twenty-second ward, $9,000; Mary A. Pochman, one two-story frame dwelling, Mt. Clair street, Twenty-third ward, $2,700; Thomas James, one two-story frame dwelling, 3537 Millwood avenue, Thirteenth ward, $4,750; John Cox, one two-story dwelling, Morningside court, near Schenley street, Nineteenth ward, $500; Fink & Waldvogel, one-story frame stable, rear 5429 Butler street, Eighteenth ward, $250; L. Vlisack, to take out old store fronts at 1737-39-41 Fifth avenue, Eleventh ward, and replace with vestibuled store fronts, to cost $1,000; Miss Annie Milligan, to take out old fronts at 1409 and 1401 Wylie avenue, Eighth ward, to cost $800, and Gaetano Conti, repairing at 27 Chatham street, Fifth ward, $500; George H. Dauler, to change the front of the building at 629 Smithfield street, Fourth ward, $1,800; A. & S. Wilson Co., for one two-story brick addition to 541 Third avenue, Second ward, $300.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow of the wool market: A very fair aggregate of sales has been consummated during the week, and the market is strong on all grades. Quarter-blood wools have shown especial firmness. All conditions indicate a protraction of present values. The first series of the 1906 London auctions opens next Tuesday and the general opinion is that prices will at least be maintained on the basis of November's opening rates. Manufacturers have again been around the Boston market, taking samples and "sizing up" conditions. They are ready to buy at short notice. With the exception of fair purchases of quarter and three-eighths fleeces by two of the large worsted mills, the buying has been confined to the woolen mills. They have taken modest quantities of fine Australian, Texas, California and clothing territory wools. Fine Staple territory is firm at 75@76c, and fine medium 68@70c. For fine clothing 68@70c has been paid, while fine medium and medium has been bought at 66@67c and 62@64c, respectively. Montana wools are now in the best supply. Northern California was sold moderately at 70c; middle county brought 67@68c. Some of the fall clip sold at 60@62c, scoured. Defective fall wool has only realized 40@42c. Fall Texas has been purchased at 72@74c, in the grease, at a clean cost of about 85c. Ohio quarter-bloods have changed hands to a considerable extent at 33c, and even 34c in some cases. For Michigan fourths the lower price has been received. Fine unwashed Ohio has been quite freely offered at 26@28½c. Three-eighths Ohio have been sold moderately at 34@35c. Fine Delaine is firmer at 37c, while XX remains steady at 25c. A supers and fine As had a fair movement at 27@28c and 25@26c. Rs are quoted at 23@25c. The shipments from Boston to date from December 27, 1905, according to the same authority are 10,663,528 pounds, against 8,823,324 pounds at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 8,109,881 pounds, against 5,962,249 pounds for the same period last year.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points notwithstanding disappointing cables and a few European selling orders. Bullish sentiment was encouraged by reports of further rains in Brazil, light primary receipts and continued full warehouse deliveries and the market held the gain in spite of some realizing. The close was steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher with sales of 82,000 bags, including January at 6.75c; February, 6.75@6.80c; March, 6.85c; May, 7.00c; July, 7.15c; August, 7.20c; September, 7.25@7.30c; October, 7.35c; November, 7.35c; December, 7.40@7.50c. Spot coffee: Rio steady; mild, steady. Sugar—Raw steady; fair refining, 3 3-16c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3 11-16c; molasses sugar, 3 1-16c. Refined sugar firm.

WEAKER MARKET IS REPORTED FOR EGGS

Receipts Are Heavy and Demand Is Small—Farmers Making Large Shipments.

With a movement among the merchants to rid themselves of all classes of storage eggs, and with heavy receipts of other grades, the egg market is becoming weaker each day. The demand at present is just moderate. The quotations on eggs were lowered a shade yesterday and a further drop is expected today as there are no signs of the market becoming any stronger for at least a week. The receipts of fresh gathered nearby eggs are exceptionally heavy, and it appears the farmers are working overtime in making collections and shipments. Previous to the holidays there was a lull in the collections as the farmers figured there was more money in poultry than in eggs at that time, and since the poultry market has become overstocked the tillers of the soil are turning their attentions to eggs.

The receipts of fine grades of celery were heavy yesterday, but as the demand is good the market has a general steady tone. The stock is of fine quality and the sales yesterday were reported as being large.

The potato market is presenting a steadier tone than for some time. There has been a slight advance in the quotations of Irish potatoes, and a further advance is expected in the near future. Sweet potatoes, however, are reported as getting weaker each day.

The trade in all lines of produce was reported as good yesterday, and a large amount of goods was disposed of during the day.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 28 cars hay, 15½ cars oats, 4 cars straw, 6½ cars corn, 2 cars rye; Baltimore & Ohio, 11 cars hay, 1 car oats; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 7 cars hay, 5 cars oats, 2 cars rye.

An increase was noted in the receipts yesterday, but the general market continued strong and no weakening in the quotations is noted. There is a strong demand for several commodities.

AN AUSPICIOUS OPENING IN ALL LINES OF TRADE

Annual Reports for 1905 Are Exceeding Expectations and Spring Shipments Are Demanded Promptly.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say: Seasonable weather more than offset the effect on business conditions of increased strife between labor and capital. Low temperature and snow brought out the backward demand for heavy weight wearing apparel and rubber goods, restoring the one lagging trade factor. Railway obstacles cause complaint in several important centers, yet earnings for December were 8.2 per cent larger than in 1904. Foreign commerce returns at this port for the last week showed an increase of $8,328,000 over the exports a year ago, while imports decreased $970,447—a trifling loss after the sensational gain of the previous week. Annual reports are surpassing expectations in most cases, and settlements are made with admirable promptness. Several advances in quotations of steel shapes testify to the pressure that is felt in some divisions of the iron and steel industry, and it is especially gratifying to note that there is no evidence of speculative influence in the gains of one or two dollars a ton for sheets, plates and wire products. Inquiries in these departments have merely surpassed the supply available.

Failures this week numbered 309 in the United States, against 324 last year, and 31 in Canada, compared with 28 a year ago.

Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

Though unfavorable weather conditions have deterred distribution of the heavy wearing apparel, autumn-like temperatures continue to favor outdoor operators to prolong the demand for building materials and to prevent cessation of labor at a period when there is always more or less enforced idleness. Clearance sales rule in retail lines, but it is especially noteworthy that orders on spring account are of large proportions; that prompt shipments are being demanded and that the season has opened three weeks to a month in advance of the usual date. Annual inventories, now virtually completed, make exceptional showings, thus corroborating earlier reports of a heavier turnover in 1905. Commodity prices on the whole have reached a record level, though foodstuffs range somewhat lower than manufactured products.

Hides are reported securely held despite quality drawbacks.

ASKS FOR BIDS FOR NEW ROUTE

Wabash Prepares for Construction of 16 Miles of Road Through Ohio Counties.

WILL BE FOR FREIGHT ONLY.

Bids have been asked by Vice President Worthington of the Wabash lines east of Toledo for the construction of 16 miles of new roadway in Stark and Wayne counties, O. The line is to be known as the Justus cut-off, because it will pass near Justus and the fact that the new shop plant of the lines east of Toledo are to be located there.

The old line, by way of Navarre and Massillon, which is 22 miles long, will be continued for passenger trains and local freight use, while the new line is designed mainly for through freight. Its maximum grade will be four-tenths of one per cent. Thus the use of helpers over the summit west of Massillon will be obviated. The helpers now cost $86,000 a year for operation alone. The line will leave the present main line of the Wheeling & Lake Erie at Bolivar, and will reach it again at Orrville. The shop plant is to be removed from Columbia to a large tract of land near Justus.

Mr. Worthington said yesterday that the contract will call for the completion of the road by next October 15. He said he knew nothing of the reported line from the Wheeling & Lake Erie to Lorain, nor of a line from Cleveland southwest to the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

Mr. Worthington returned yesterday morning from New York, where he attended the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railway. All the old officers were re-elected. The three new members of the board of directors, Charles Donnelly and President F. H. Skelding of the First National bank of Pittsburgh, representing Pennsylvania, and T. E. Young of Cleveland, representing Ohio, were represented at the board meeting for the first time.

Railroad Notes.

The semi-annual watch examination of the Panhandle yardmasters, conductors, enginemen and flagmen will be held January 15-31.

It is expected that the new Y. M. C. A. building of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at McKees Rocks will be opened for use in about two weeks.

The Pennsylvania's coal and coke shipments for the week ended January 6 amounted to 809,706 tons—673,825 tons of bituminous coal, 127,338 tons of coke and 8,485 tons of anthracite coal.

J. B. Erwin, whose resignation as agent of the Baltimore & Ohio at Petrolia was noted in The Gazette a few days ago, has accepted a lucrative position with the Standard Oil Company, with headquarters at Kane, Pa.

William Carroll and Milton Claypool have been promoted from brakemen to night conductors at the Union station terminal. Michael Maloney has been promoted from the baggage room to baggage porter on the platform in the train shed.

General Traffic Manager Ives of the Wabash is expected in Pittsburgh today for a conference with local officers. General Freight Agent Booth and Assistant General Passenger Agent Kelley, who made trips over the lines yesterday, will return this morning.

In the Oil Fields

Twelve miles southeast of Mansfield, near the town of Butler, in Richland county, O., an important test well was drilled in on December 23 last. The well is on the William Mengert farm and is owned by Judges J. B. Waight and E. O. Leverling of Mt. Vernon. The oil was developed in the Clinton limestone, at a depth of 2,930 feet. The pay was reached at a depth of three feet in the sand, and the first 24 hours after it was tapped the well produced 250 barrels. Drilling was suspended to erect tankage and take care of the oil.

The well, when drilled in, was a double surprise. First, its size, and then the quality of the oil. By color it is a very light amber, nearly as clear as refined oil, and about 56 gravity. Both the gravity and color impresses one with the idea that it is a freak well. Contrary to the usual actions of freaks, it is holding up remarkably well, and still produces about 100 barrels a day, according to reliable information. There has been a good deal of mystery surrounding the well, the owners not giving out any information, prompted, no doubt, by the desire to secure more leases.

Pittsburgh operators have taken up a large acreage in Richland and Knox county, to the south. The Mohican Oil & Gas Company, the Ohio Fuel Supply Company and the Union Natural Gas Company have large holdings. About a year ago the first named company drilled a well into the same formation, located about 12 miles southeast of the new strike, and got a heavy oil producer that is still holding up at about 25 barrels a day. The gravity of the oil found in this well is about 35, and it is very dark in color. A second well was drilled by the same company on the same farm and came in a duster. Two years ago T. N. Barnsdall drilled a well, located many miles south of the test in Richland county, and got oil of the same quality in the same formation. Other tests were drilled in the vicinity of the small producer, but none found oil in paying quantities.

Seven miles northeast of the well near Butler, the Ohio Oil Company is drilling a test and should get the producing formation this or next week. The completion of this well is awaited with a great deal of interest. Active development work will begin early in the spring, and, should there be any considerable producing territory surrounding the present producer, the field will be rapidly developed. The various gas companies that have been operating in Richland and adjoining counties will be aggressive developers of the territory.

The failure to find strictly new producing territory, capable of furnishing high grade crude, causes operators to take an interest in new strikes inside of the old defined limits, if there is room for a pool. For more than two years the discovery of small pools has been the only thing to encourage a continuance of operations in nearly every producing district. A recent discovery of this kind in Clarion county has stirred up a little excitement, and leases have been in demand at a fair bonus. Two or three weeks ago the Clarion Gas Company, an auxiliary of the Pittsburgh Oil & Gas Company, drilled in a test well on the J. P. Reed farm, located north of Miola, Highland township, Clarion county, and got what is proving to be a very good producer. The oil was developed in the third sand, and the hole filled up 500 feet with fluid. As soon as the well began to show oil it was shut down, and the information kept from the public till more territory had been taken up in the vicinity. This having been accomplished, the well was drilled through the sand, and two weeks ago was put to pumping, and has since then been averaging 16 barrels a day. A second well was at once started on the same farm, and is now due in the sand. When the well was started it was expected to get gas in the second sand. The Clarion Gas Company holds leases on a large block of territory and will now drill down some of the old gassers that have a diminishing pressure, and expects to get oil producers in the lower formation.

The Pittsburgh Oil & Gas Company has completed its 4-inch branch line, running from Armstrong county, to its 8-inch line, extending from Brady bend to Greenville, Pa., Jamestown and Conneaut and other towns in Northwestern Ohio. The gas was turned from the branch line into the main line last week, and the pressure increased to a point that gives an ample supply the year round for its present consumers and will make it possible to extend the service to many other towns in that part of the state. The rock pressure of the gas wells the company owns in Clarion and Armstrong counties is very heavy, obviating the assistance of pumping stations.

In the Littleton district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 1 on the Henry Boles farm into the Gordon, and has developed no oil or gas. In the Folsom district the same company has started to drill again at its No. 3 on the Jesse Talkington farm. It is now drilling in the top of the Gordon. In the Big Lime district, near Milton, Cabell county, there is more new work starting than at any time in the past year. The Berkley Oil & Gas Company is building the rig for its No. 4 on the T. J. Berkley farm. Near Dunns station, Greene county, Pa., the Home Oil & Gas Company has completed a test on the William Milholland farm and has a duster.
